British Forces Reach Sidon Port

Given Viscountcy

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, above, former prime minister of Canada, was given a viscountcy in the King's birthday honors list published yesterday. He has not as yet chosen his title.

R. B. Bennett Is Recipient Of Viscountcy

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, June 12—(CP)—A viscountcy is bestowed on Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett in the King's birthday honors list published today.

The honor to the former Canadian prime minister is the highest in a comparatively short civilian list, which includes also the appointment of Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in the United Kingdom, to the privy council.

Lord Bennett will take a seat in the House of Lords, thus returning to political life from which he retired in 1938 when he came to England "to do something helpful for the Empire and Canada."

LONG PREDICTED

His elevation to the peerage had been predicted since he first arrived in England and became squire of Juniper Hill estate, Mickleham, Surrey.

Though he has not been in the limelight to the same degree as when he was leader of the Canadian Conservative party, he frequently

$625,000 For Home Program

A home building program in 1941 valued at $625,000 is anticipated by John Paterson, superintendent city land department, if present land sales for building purposes are maintained. He estimated on present sales that 250 parcels of city-owned land would be sold this year on which homes would be erected at an average cost of $2,500 each.

Up to the end of May 211 homes had been built at a cost of $469,350, more than half of which were built on lots sold by the city land department.

During the first 10 days in June approximately 30 further parcels of land were disposed of in different sections of the city, on which homes costing an average of $3,000 will be built. Included in these sales were the 10 lots sold to Neil and Mac Colville, New York Rangers' hockey stars, who are sinking $16,000 of their saving in home-building in Edmonton.

"Since early spring there has been a steady and increasing de-

Port Of Assab Is Captured By British Forces

LONDON, June 12. — (CP) — The port of Assab in Italian Eritrea, Italy's first foothold in Africa which was expanded into an empire, has fallen to British forces in a joint air, naval and army operation launched from Aden, it was announced today.

Informed British sources said the capture of the port at the southern end of the Red Sea completed British occupation of the Eritrean coast and left French Somaliland with British-occupied territory on three sides and blockaded from the sea.

Informed British sources said the capture of the port at the southern end of the Red Sea completed British occupation of the Eritrean coast and left French Somaliland with British-occupied territory on three sides and blockaded from the sea.

(The Eritrean coast is approximately 670 miles long.)

There was no indication, however, of any designs upon the French colony which has only a small French garrison but which London appar-

Disapproval Of Bond Interest Default Voiced

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley today expressed "the strongest disapproval" of Alberta's failure to pay full contractual interest on its bonds, speaking in the House of Commons on finance department estimates.

But the minister also denied the claim of Conservative House Leader Hanson that the federal government was, by actions, approving and condoning Alberta's treatment of bondholders.

The discussion arose over the $45,000,000 supplementary estimate to cover compensation to be paid the provinces which accept the federal government's proposal that they abandon the income tax field.

The minister said the government did not propose to compensate Alberta to the full amount of its debt service cost as if the province were paying the full rates of interest contracted for in provincial bonds.

This attitude, Mr. Hanson countered, was in effect a "condonation" of the Alberta government's "default" on interest payments.

DECLARED ILLEGAL

He declared the Alberta government's action had been declared illegal and unconstitutional by the highest courts in the land," and the

Today's War Moves

By British United Press

THE sudden smoke screen thrown up over Germany's supposed massing of troops along the Russian borders is puzzling neutral observers, both here and abroad, but it should not be allowed to obscure the fact that the real seat of war has not been removed from the Near East and North Africa.

Hitler's objective is to take the Mosul oil fields and drive the British out of the eastern Mediterranean. His costly stab into Crete can scarcely be regarded as an idle experiment. It had all the marks of the opening wedge of a drive toward the Suez Canal.

It is granted that Hitler covets Russia's Ukraine granary but it also is obvious that Russia does not intend to give it up. Hitler has nothing discernible to offer Russia in compensation. Hence he would have to take on the Soviet's land and air forces if he tried to invade it.

DEATH STRUGGLE

Hitler is engaged in a death struggle with the British Empire. He is occupied on far fronts at sea,

Joint Declaration By Empire, Allied Nations Answers Peace Feelers

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON, June 12.—(BUP)—Great Britain, the dominions and nine Allied governments today answered German peace propaganda feelers with a joint declaration which Prime Minister Winston Churchill said pledged them to fight "until life is gone or victory is won."

The declaration was the first to be issued in association by Britain and her dominions and allies since the start of the war.

It bound the participants to fight until Hitlerism has been driven from Europe and was regarded here as a blunt reply to all and any Nazi peace moves.

Text of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech to representatives of the Dominions and Allied nations in London will be found on page 6.

Churchill, addressing the assembly of dominion and allied representatives at St. James' Palace, asserted that Britain and her associates would fight to the finish.

"They have drawn their swords in this cause," he declared. "They will never let them fall until life is gone or victory is won."

The declaration was approved by Britain, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and South Africa, and the exiled governments of Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Greece and Yugoslavia and by a representative of Free France.

It constitutes the first mutual statement by all the allied powers and its adoption at this moment was regarded as an effective answer to peace rumors allegedly circulated by the Germans in the United States and Europe.

The proposal for a joint statement had been strongly backed by the British as early as last October. However, the fact that Greece was then fighting only Italy and not Germany made it difficult to draft a statement which Greece as well as the other allies could sign.

King George VI. visited St. James' Palace, where he was presented to the heads of the Allied governments by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Victory War Loan Subscriptions Hit $372,556,800 Mark

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Victory Loan subscriptions on Wednesday totalled $32,159,400, bringing the cumulative total subscribed to Canada's $600,000,000 Victory War Loan since the books opened June 2 to $372,556,800, the loan headquarters committee announced today.

The number of individual subscribers yesterday was 59,620, bringing the cumulative total of subscribers to 386,873.

"For the second day, we have to acknowledge that subscriptions are below the $33,000,000 daily average required to make the loan a success," said G. W. Spinney, national executive chairman, in a statement. Subscription books are scheduled to close June 21.

SLIGHT INCREASE

"While the figures are still below that average, yesterday's total is slightly increased over the day before," Mr. Spinney said.

"A careful study of all the returns indicated that the small subscriber, the average Canadian citizen, is continuing to tender his dollars for war purposes. It also indicates that at the opposite end of the scale the large subscriber is shouldering his patriotic responsibility.

"It also reveals to anyone versed in such matters that men in the salaried class and those on the moderate scale of business are some-

Call Conference If All Premiers Express Desire

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—If all the provinces request the calling of a Dominion-provincial conference, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today, he will call it at once.

Mr. King said the provinces should not wait to be asked their views, but should write to him at once if they desire a conference, as suggested by Premier Hepburn of Ontario, and to outline the agenda they would like to have before such a conference.

The question was raised by Conservative House Leader Hanson, who suggested the prime minister reconsider his stand on Premier Hepburn's suggestion and call a Dominion-provincial conference of his own volition.

Believe Britain Stepped Up Invasion Of Syria To Beat Axis Propaganda

By JOHN T. WHITAKER

LISBON, June 12.—(CDN)—As Hitler and Mussolini prepared to exploit their victory in Crete and the treachery of Vichy, to assure their respective publics and potential allies that victory is just around the corner, the British government, to the surprise of its own public, has taken the initiative and acted first for the first time in this war.

WHITAKER

This aspect of the invasion of Syria overshadows the sorry spectacle of two former allies now finding themselves at war. The ultimate reaction of the Nazi-controlled, but not Nazi-intended continent depends upon the issue of the struggle now under way. Great Britain will be applauded if she wins, reviled if she loses, in Syria.

Informed quarters knew Saturday night that Hitler planned to issue a press statement Monday and Mussolini address the Fascist grand council Tuesday. Some observers profess to believe that the British even stepped up their invasion of Syria by one day because they had anticipated those two propaganda efforts.

EXCLUSIVE

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, as a devout Catholic, preferred to launch the attack on Monday, rather than Sunday morning, but he and Gen. Georges Catroux, Free French leader in the near east, agreed to give the two dictators a surprise, these quarters believe.

Not the least remarkable aspect

American Ship Known To Nazis Before Sinking

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The United States state department announced today that a preliminary report from the American consul in Pernambuco, Brazil, stated that the U.S. ship Robin Moor was undoubtedly sunk by a German submarine.

The report added that the commander of the submarine was fully aware that the Robin Moor was an American vessel.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, made the announcement at his press conference.

BASED ON INTERVIEWS

The report of the consul, Walter J. Linthicum, was based on interviews with the 11 survivors of the ship which was sunk on May 21 in the South Atlantic. Thirty-five persons are missing.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said the full report is expected Monday, but it might be later. It must be studied by officials here, he said, before a course of action, if any, is set.

Welles added that the Robin Moor's cargo contained no implements of war or other military materials inconsistent with the Neutrality Act.

Welles said the cargo was consigned to Lorenco Marques, Port Elizabeth, Cape Town, Port Natal and East London.

ACTION NOT INDICATED

All of the ports for which the ship was headed are in Portuguese and British Africa.

Several days ago Early said President Roosevelt would prefer that judgment be suspended on the Robin Moor's fate until after the facts are established.

Today, after Welles read the report, Early said:

"There no longer seems to be any reason to reserve judgment." Welles refused to indicate what action the United States would take.

Chancellor Dies

Hon. A. C. Rutherford, B.A. B.C.L., K.C., LL.D., chancellor of the University of Alberta, who died in the city Wednesday night.

Dr. Rutherford Passes In City Aged 84 Years

First premier of Alberta, distinguished King's Counsel learned in the law and a leading resident contributing to the welfare of this city for many years, Hon. A. C. Rutherford, B.A., B.C.L., K.C., LL.D., died at a city hospital at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. He was 84 years old on February 2 last. He had been subject to attacks of serious illness for some time and fought a gallant but losing battle for life. He was Chancellor of the University of Alberta.

The last illness, which resulted in his death, occurred last Saturday, when there was a recurrence of the ailment from which he suffered and he was removed to hospital. He was given insulin treatment, but he failed to respond and sank rapidly.

Mrs. Casselman Is Introduced To Parliament

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 12.—For the first time in his life Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Canada's bachelor No. 1, led a lady down the long aisle. There was no music but applause of members of parliament giving welcome to Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, member-elect for East Edmonton.

Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce and M.P. for West Edmonton, was best man. With Mr. King on her left and Mr. MacKinnon on her right, Mrs. Casselman was escorted down the green carpet when the house resumed its session last night.

The trio stood before the mace, bowed to Mr. Speaker, and Prime Minister King introduced Mrs. Casselman, who "clamied the right to take her seat." The Speaker directed: "Let the hon. member take her seat."

Mrs. Casselman thereupon went to the Speaker's chair and shook hands with His Honor, then walked back alone to her seat on the front bench at the south end of the

Free French Army Reaches Outskirts Of Syrian Capital

About Half Of Vichy Forces Encountered Go Over To De Gaulle Ranks, But Bulk Not Yet Encountered In Drive

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 12.—(AP)—8:45 p.m. (11:45 a.m. M.S.T.)—(AP)—The French command in Damascus claimed tonight its forces defending the Syrian capital in the vicinity of Kissoue had counter-attacked the Allies who had reached a point about 10 miles from the city. (There was no immediate confirmation of this claim in Allied circles.)

CAIRO, Egypt, June 12.—(AP)—British and Imperial forces have reached the ancient port of Sidon, 20 miles south of Beirut, while Free French units are on the southern outskirts of Damascus, informed British sources said tonight. In both sectors Vichy opposition has been overcome, it was added.

Military dispatches said that about half the Vichy forces thus far encountered had gone over to the Free French cause, but it was stressed that the bulk of the Vichy forces still had to come into action.

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—British and Free French forces, advancing in six spearhead drives into French-mandated Syria and Lebanon, and bearing promises of liberation, sovereignty and protection against the Axis, reported important gains in all sectors today.

"Misled by incorrect information regarding the objects of our penetraton, Vichy troops are offering resistance in certain areas, obliging us to use force to prevent obstruction to our advance," said the communique, issued at Cairo.

"When these troops have been overrun many have expressed sympathy with the Allied object of preserving Syria from German penetration."

Most news on the campaign came indirectly to London by way of Damascus or Vichy.

SEPARATE ADVANCES

This pictured the Allies again lashing at the outlying defences of Damascus, Syria's capital, with tank-led attacks some 10 miles from the city while other forces fought almost to the outskirts of Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, Lebanese capital.

The campaign was represented by these separate columns penetrating the mandated lands: one force based in Iraq, now threatening Ras-El-Ain

Aberhart Takes Critical View Of Ilsley's Stand

Unless Canadian people demand immediate action to restore to parliament its full sovereign powers over control of issue of currency and credit and of monetary policy, survival of responsible democratic government in Canada is endangered, according to a statement Thursday by Premier William Aberhart.

The Premier's statement was made in commenting on a remark, reported to have been made in the house of commons on June 2 by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, that "I have no right, nor has the government any right, to dictate to the Bank of Canada as to what its policies shall be."

The Premier contended that the people must have been "dumbfounded" at this "staggering" news.

His comment, in full, on Mr. Ilsley's statement, is as follows:

IMPLICATION SEEN

"I am confident that the people of Canada must have been dumbfounded when Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley arose in the house of commons on Monday afternoon, of the Syrian incident is the statement by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state in Vichy, that there are no Germans in Syria—a statement which follows by only a few months his solemn promise that Germany would not jockey France into war against her former ally.

Syria Invasion Is Stepped Up To Foil Nazis

While Vichy circles knew Marshal Petain to be infirm as well as aged, they thought that he would carry out his threat, several times uttered in private, to take an airplane to Morocco rather than sacrifice the dignity and honor of France.

Every government with the semblance of an intelligence service agrees that the Germans already have no less than 4,000 men and somewhere between 100 and 200 airplanes in Syria. These figures can be checked in several quarters. They must be known to the French Deuxieme Bureau, unless it is completely controlled by the Germans, and if they are not known to Marshal Petain, it is because that old warrior is as easily handled by Hitler as was Paul von Hindenburg.

STATEMENT INVALIDATED

Marshal Petain's statement was invalidated even by Giovanni Ansaldo. That official but scarcely discreet spokesman for Italy announced by radio that "the British will find that the Axis have taken their precautions in Syria."

Few observers expect any large percentage of France's 55,000 men in Syria to come over to the British side. The Germans have been carefully preparing the situation there for months. The Deuxieme Bureau has been honeycombed with German spies, French officers whose military records showed courage and independence of mind have been transferred elsewhere, gold has been wisely spent and civil servants have been offered the prospect of promotion and pay.

It is interesting, however, that the first allied thrust is through the Djebel Druz. That is the area defended by the Circassian corps which Col. Philibert Collet trained. They may come over, especially as the Syrians' economic misery has been very real indeed since the defeat of France.

on land and in the air. He has no surplus of resources to remove from that struggle for a vast new one.

It does not make sense that Hitler suddenly would relax his war on Britain and give her time to gain strength, including life saving supplies from the United States, while he concentrated against a powerful and valuable ally.

Hitler probably is increasing his troop concentrations in Bulgaria and Rumania. By turning over Greece — temporarily anyhow — to Mussolini, he has released a considerable force for duty elsewhere.

It has been suggested that Hitler has been trying to persuade or force Russia to permit him to march through the Ukraine and Caucasus into Iran to outflank the British in Syria, Iraq and Palestine. It is a nice theory but it has two drawbacks.

The first is that Russia wants no German troops marching through the ripening wheat fields of the Ukraine. The other is that it would mean a march of more than 2,000 miles over some of the meanest country on earth, barren of transport and communication facilities.

SHORTER ROUTE

If Hitler does want to outflank the British in the Near East by land, there is a much shorter and easier route. That is by land across Turkey. From the Bosphorus to the Syrian border it is an air line distance of about 600 miles. The terrain is difficult in parts and communications none too good, but they are excellent compared to the Caucasus route.

Supposing Hitler is putting pressure on Russia for a concession of some kind, it might be for permission to march across Turkey. Soviet Russia is vitally interested in Turkey and the Dardanelles, outlet of the Black Sea. Russia and Turkey have been allies since 1923. They have a more recent pact of friendship and non-aggression.

Russia's consent would be needed if Hitler is to move through Turkey. If the consent were given, Turkey, abandoned by Russia, would not be in a position to resist Hitler's armies and it is doubtful that the British could give them adequate assistance.

All of this, however is hypothetical. If there is any meaning behind the reported German troop concentrations, it is more likely connected with the eastern Mediterranean states than with any meditated war with Russia.

Carpenters' Pay Set At 97 Cents

Wage rate of 97 cents an hour for union carpenters in this city, effective as from April 15 last, has been recommended in a unanimous report submitted to Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, by the arbitration board appointed by the minister to deal with the subject, it was reliably learned Thursday.

This recommendation is a compromise settlement in the wage dispute which has arisen between the Edmonton General Contractors' Association and union carpenters. The union sought an increase in the hourly wage paid in 1940, from 90 cents to $1 an hour. The contractors countered, by offering 95 cents. This was not acceptable to the carpenters, and the conciliation, and subsequently arbitration, boards were appointed.

The opposing parties have the option of accepting or rejecting the recommendation. The report will be considered at a meeting of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Edmonton Local 1,325, Thursday night. The contractors' association is expected to meet next week to consider the recommendation, according to J. L. Mellish, secretary.

R. C. Marshall, of the Crown Paving Company, was chairman of the board, with Alfred Farmilo representing the carpenters, and Daniel McAfee the contractors.

Bennett Given Congratulations

Extremely gratified at the recognition of His Majesty King George the Sixth of their former leader Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservatives in the federal ridings of Edmonton West and East sent the former prime minister of Canada congratulation by cable on Thursday.

Text of the cablegram follows:

"Conservatives of Edmonton rejoice in the well-deserved honor conferred upon you and wish you many happy years in which to bring further honors to yourself and credit to Canada and the Empire."

Vessel Sunk

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Maritime circles said Wednesday the 5,655-ton Norwegian motorship freighter Teneriffa, operating under British control, has been sunk in the north Atlantic. Her entire crew was reported saved.

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, left Thursday on an inspection of southern Alberta highways. Accompanying him were G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works, and Norman W. Macpherson, highway commissioner. They are expected to return here early next week.

Mrs. Casselman Is Introduced To Parliament

chamber. As she passed his desk, Prime Minister King rose and shook hands. Arrived at her own desk Mrs. Casselman was greeted by surrounding members. Her deskmate is Dr. F. W. Gershaw (Lib.-Medicine Hat).

On her desk was a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath. They had been placed there at the behest of the wives of the Liberal members of parliament. The card said "The Liberal Members," but that was to conform to the house rule that only flowers from members may be placed on the desks. The chief whip however told Mrs. Casselman the truth.

Before she went in Mrs. Casselman waited in the front lobby with Mr. MacKinnon.

RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS

Members passed to go into house but stopped to congratulate Mrs. Casselman. Senator Dandurand, government leader in the Senate, gallantly added to his congratulation. "It is I and not Mr. King who should be introducing you—into the Senate."

"She's too young," commented an M.P.

Dr. Fleming (Lib. Humbolt) recalled to Mrs. Casselman they had been to university together.

The prime minister expressed his gratification at the privilege of introducing her.

Mrs. Casselman wore a smart long—well a newspaperman says his wife says it was a redingote—in black, relieved with white. She wore no hat. She was perfectly self-possessed and showed no sign of nervousness. When she took her seat she rearranged the roses a little and settled back to listen to the debate.

The new member has been allotted room 641 formerly shared by her husband with J. H. Sissons (Lib. Peace River) who has returned west and when the session resumes he will be with another member.

In a personal way comment on Mrs. Casselman is all favorable. She has poise and an educational background which commends her to veteran parliamentarians. She shows no signs of wanting to crusade all over the place as some previous women members have. She is the first lady government member ever to sit in the Commons.

One member remarked facetiously "Well, we'll be seeing you in caucus—the first woman member of our caucus." That was not quite correct as Senator Carine Wilson attended the Liberal caucus.

on the Turkish border on its drive toward Aleppo, Northern Syria; one curving scimitar-like up the valley of the Euphrates river from Iraq toward Aleppo; one shoving along the oil pipeline from Iraq toward Palmyra and three pushing on Damascus and Beirut from Palestine and Trans-Jordan to the South.

One of the units advancing toward Aleppo has seized the air base at Deir-Ez-Zor after moving 75 miles up the Euphrates valley from the Iraq frontier, press dispatches from Turkey said.

ADMISSION BY VICHY

The other column, the same sources said, has reached Ras El Main, 100 miles north of Deir-Ez-Zor and 125 miles west of Iraq on the Baghdad-Aleppo railway, which parallels the Turkish frontier.

Both forces, according to these reports, are within 175 miles of Aleppo, which is important as an air base and a rail centre.

Dispatches from Vichy acknowledged Allied forces had crossed the Syrian border from Iraq at Abou Kemal on the Euphrates, but failed to say how deeply they had penetrated.

Official British sources had little to say concerning operations on the southern front, but Vichy claimed its troops were holding the British and Free French forces at bay on the outskirts of Damascus while yielding ground below Beirut.

LAUNCH HEAVY ATTACKS

Heavy attacks were launched by the Free French yesterday just east of Kissoue, 10 miles south of Damascus, in an attempt to drive around the French flank. They were repelled, Vichy claimed.

The French acknowledged loss of Merdjayoun to Allied troops pushing toward Beirut, and said their forces had fallen back to new positions on the heights of Hasbaya dominating a narrow passage leading to the north.

Capture of Merdjayoun, 40 miles from Beirut and five miles from the northernmost tip of Palestine, was reported originally by authoritative British sources Monday.

Observers believed action in this sector indicated the invading forces were attempting to push up the Litani river—which makes a right angle turn to the north near Merdjayoun — toward Rayak, 25 miles east of Beirut, and thus attack the Lebanese capital from two directions.

Advance elements moving along the coast toward Beirut have reached a point six miles from Saida (Sidon), which is 25 miles south of the city, British sources said.

A column which has been reported advancing from Trans-Jordan into Jebel Ed Druz in the direction of Damascus apparently has been making slow progress.

The French said last night their forces in Jebel Ed Druz were holding Soueida, 55 miles south of Damascus, and British sources did not deny this.

June 2, and declared that parliament has no control over the Bank of Canada; or in other words that parliament is not sovereign in Canada.

"Such a statement coming from the finance minister of our Canadian government would clearly indicate that the boasted democracy for the preservation of which we rightly claim we are today struggling, has departed from within our own boundaries and that the money power, represented by the Bank of Canada, has become supreme in its dictates and policies.

"So serious are the implications of Mr. Ilsley's statement that the people must realize he has raised an issue of such vital national importance that they dare not permit it to go unchallenged, especially in a time like this.

"When the minister of finance speaks in the house of commons on financial questions he speaks for the government. When, therefore, he tells parliament that it has lost its sovereign rights, it is the government telling the people that democracy in Canada has ceased to exist. This staggering news should have been blazed across the pages of every newspaper in Canada.

PRIME MINISTER'S VIEW

"Could it be that neither parliament nor the press understood the full meaning of the Hon. J. L. Ilsley's statement? This would indeed be strange, for it will be recalled that the Prime Minister himself stated in 1935:

'Until the control of the issue of currency and credit is restored to the government and recognized as its most conspicuous and sacred responsibility, all talk of the sovereignty of parliament and democracy is idle and futile.'

"And on the night of the general election which followed, in the full flush of the sweeping victory of his party, he said:

'The election is an endorsation of the Liberal view that credit is a public matter, not of interest to bankers only, but of direct concern to every citizen. It is a verdict against a privately owned and controlled bank and in favor of a properly constituted national bank to perform the function of re-discount, and the control of currency issue considered in terms of public need. There can be no mistaking the demand for a restoration to the government of Canada, of control over credit and currency issue . . .'

"There cannot possibly be any misunderstanding about the meaning of those statements.

"It is almost unbelievable, therefore, that on Monday of last week the minister of finance, with the full authority of the government, should have made the astounding revelation regarding the relationship of the Bank of Canada to parliament.

"Mr. Blackmore, leader of the Social Credit-New Democracy, group, immediately demanded:

'Do I understand the minister to say that the Bank of Canada is not directly under the control of the department of finance?'

MINISTER'S REPLY

"To which Mr. Ilsley replied: 'Correct.'

"Then Mr. Blackmore further questioned:

'That it is independent of the finance department, and therefore independent of this house?'

"Again Mr. Ilsley responded: 'Correct.'

'Independent of the administration too?' asked Mr. Blackmore.

"In the course of his reply the finance minister stated: ' . . . I have no right, nor has the government any right, to dictate to the Bank of Canada as to what its policies shall be.'

"When Mr. Hanson, leader of the opposition registered a strong protest, he was called to order by the speaker.

"This is a matter of exceedingly grave importance and Canadians everywhere should demand a clarification of the issue.

"The Bank of Canada by its policies directs the entire economic life of our country. By its control over the issue of money the Bank of Canada, through the commercial banks, can influence the nature and volume of production, is able to curtail or expand Canada's war effort, and indirectly determine the volume of money the government can obtain, thus controlling government policies.

"If neither the minister of finance nor the parliament of Canada has any control over the policies of the Bank of Canada and has no right to even question those policies, then clearly parliament is subservient to the Bank of Canada.

POSITION CLEAR

"The minister of finance did not reveal who does decide the Bank of Canada's policies or to whom the bank is responsible for its control over the monetary system. However, he made it clear that the bank is not responsible to either him nor to parliament as representing the people of Canada.

"It is a truism that 'they who control the things that people want control the people.' In our money economy money controls the things that people want and the Bank of Canada controls the nation's money. So we have, according to Mr. Ilsley's statement, an absolute and open dictatorship by the Bank of Canada devoid of any control by parliament. And we are fighting totalitarianism!

"Surely this is a vital matter to democratic liberty and economic security. Unless the people of Canada realize this and demand immediate action to restore to parliament its full sovereign powers over the control of the issue of currency and credit and of monetary policy, how can responsible democratic government survive in Canada?"

Italo Vessel Sunk Near Dardanelles By British Warship

ISTANBUL, June 12.—(AP)—Authorized sources reported yesterday that an unidentified Italian ship had been sunk off the Dardanelles by a British warcraft, presumably a submarine.

The Turkish ship Tirhan, en route from Izmir to Istanbul, wirelessed she had picked up a number of survivors from the Italian vessel.

Disapproval Of Bond Interest Default Voiced

financial status of Alberta was "a status of default."

In making its proposals to the provinces on the income tax situation the federal government was not going into the morals of the governments concerned, Mr. Ilsley said.

There was no assurance that if an extra $1,750,000 were paid Alberta it would be passed along to the bondholders. Such aspects of the situation could be discussed later if necessary, said the minister.

ADJOURN UNTIL NOV. 3

The House agreed, on a motion by the Prime Minister, that when adjournment is reached the House remain adjourned until Nov. 3, unless an emergency arises requiring an earlier assembly.

The finance minister read a prepared statement covering questions asked earlier on the status of Alberta under the proposals that provinces abandon the income tax field.

Mr. Ilsley said it was likely Alberta would accept the first of two options offered the provinces for getting out of their tax fields. This was a grant equal to the province's receipts from income and corporation taxes. The other option is a grant equal to the province's payments on bond interest.

BASIS FOR PAYMENTS

"The annual payments to the provinces are based either on the cash actually received from taxes in 1940 or the cash actually paid out in interest," said Mr. Ilsley.

"The formula is not based on the taxes which should have been collected or the interest which should have been paid."

If Alberta accepted a grant based on tax collections it would be about $4,000,000, but a grant on present interest payments would be $3,200,000. If the grant were based on interest payments at full rates before the default it would be $5,750,000.

Mr. Ilsley said there had been no indication Alberta wished to resume full interest payments and he did not think anyone would suggest the Dominion should make a gift to Alberta of $1,750,000 unless that province should agree to pay its interest in full.

AMPLE EVIDENCE

This could not be regarded as condoning Alberta's default. The Dominion had given ample evidence of its attitude towards repudiation of contractual obligations and its desire to help provinces in financial difficulties.

"This does not mean that the door is being shut for all time," said the minister. "Or that this government will not reconsider the matter if the situation changes.

"For example, if the Alberta government were to work out some refunding plan with its bondholders and then asked the Dominion to reconsider the basis on which the annual payment is to be computed, we would be prepared to sit down and discuss the question or any other reasonable proposal that might be presented. But I cannot see any good purpose to be served by crossing this bridge before we come to it."

In case bond speculators should attach importance to his remarks, the minister said if the Dominion ever became a party to any arrangement about Alberta bonds it would be necessary to impose a capital gains tax or take other steps to see that speculations were not able to profit from increases in bond values.

IMPOSED INCOME TAXES

Mr. Ilsley said Mr. Hanson had asked the Dominion to stipulate that provincial governments deal fairly with municipalities where municipal income taxes are being discontinued. This, he said, applied particularly to New Brunswick where all municipalities imposed income taxes.

The municipalities were the creatures of the provinces and before making any commitment on the point he said he wished to consult the views of New Brunswick government representatives who would also be concerned with the protection of the municipalities.

Answering a further question from the Conservative leader Mr. Ilsley gave the estimated amounts payable to the provinces under the two options, the larger being the amount likely to be accepted.

AMOUNTS FOLLOW

The amounts follow with the tax collection option first and bond interest option in brackets:

Prince Edward Island, $250,000 ($275,000); Nova Scotia, $1,500,000 ($2,725,000); New Brunswick, $2,575,000 ($3,250,000); Quebec, $17,000,000 ($1,975,000); Ontario, $29,000,000 ($10,800,000).

Manitoba, $5,000,000 ($3,175,000); Saskatchewan, $2,075,000 ($6,300,000); Alberta, $4,000,000 ($3,200,000); British Columbia, $12,600,000 ($6,000,000).

The total of the larger options was $80,150,000.

The proposals to the provinces also included dropping the present special grants paid to six provinces and involved fiscal need subsidies to provinces which could establish the need. For budget purposes the minister estimates requirements for these subsidies at $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, or $2,000,000 less than the present special grants.

The minister estimated increases in income and corporation taxes would add $169,000,000 to the revenue. Allowing $80,000,000 for provincial grants, assuming all provinces accepted the proposals, this would make a net increase of $89,000,000.

This year, however, the whole $80,000,000 would not be paid out, and the minister said he believed the $45,000,000 provided in the supplementary estimates which were under consideration at the time would be sufficient to pay grants during the present fiscal year.

what slow in getting moving and in shouldering their share of the loan. They are not yet taking advantage of the instalment plan which was designed largely for their convenience."

NUMBER IS SMALL

Mr. Spinney said the number of instalment subscribers was so small as to be "quite remarkable."

"Since the opening of the Victory Loan the responsibility has been placed upon me as chairman of the executive committee of the campaign to inform the public daily through the press of our progress," Mr. Spinney said. "It was pleasant and comforting at the start to be able to announce from day to day that the Canadian public were taking hold, and the indications were that, provided the initial progress could be maintained, an early oversubscription would be in sight.

"That early progress has not been maintained.

IMPRESS IMPORTANCE

"The Victory Loan Committee through its various publicity outlets has done everything in its power to impress upon the people of Canada the importance that everyone support the loan, not only with his immediate capacity but by taking advantage of the six month instalment payments as provided in the terms of the loan.

"I believe the activities of the victory loan committees in Canada have created a patriotic fervor which far exceeds anything we have seen since the war began, but now is the time to translate patriotic fervor into action."

Good Crop Growth

All grains are showing good growth and wheat is up four to six inches in the Peace River territory, according to the crop report of the Northern Alberta Railways for conditions as at June 11, issued Thursday by authority of J. M. MacArthur, general manager. Oats and barley are up two to four inches. Scattered showers during the last week have helped. The Edmonton district needs heavy rain. The rest of the territory will require rain in the next few days.

Policy Opposed

CALGARY, June 12—(CP)—The policy of shipping "wheat or any other commodity to Japan or any other country in the Axis group, irrespective of its final destination or reason for being sent" was criticized in a resolution passed by the Calgary Ministerial Association on Wednesday.

ently hopes will enter the Free French camp.

Two Italian generals and a naval captain were among the prisoners taken at Assab.

Britain's Middle East command in Cairo announced that the port was captured as a result of a combined operation in which the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force supported a surprise landing by Indian troops.

PRISONERS CAPTURED

"Prisoners so far counted include 50 naval ratings, 87 pilots and airmen, 39 German seamen and a number of Italian troops," said the communique.

"Generals Carda and Piacentini with Captain Colla of the Royal Italian Navy are also in our hands."

The communique also reported the capture of Lamenti, an important town 170 miles west of Addis Ababa, by Ethiopian natives. In the Jimma area, southwestern Ethiopia, "our general advance is continuing," the communique added.

Assab is the second port of Eritrea.

Massaua, the chief port, was captured by British, Imperial and Free French forces April 9.

Assab was taken at dawn yesterday, the Aden dispatch said, as a result of a combined navy, army and air force operation launched from Aden. Two Italian generals were among several hundred prisoners taken.

H. Crabtree Is Again Elected Head Of C.M.A.

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., June 12.—(CP)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association closed its three-day convention at a luncheon gathering Wednesday after breaking a precedent of many years by re-electing Harold Crabtree of Montreal as president.

At the closing luncheon, the 300 delegates heard an appeal from Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of pensions and national health, for "the exertion of every potential ounce of our collective effort and strength" to win the war.

Mr. Mackenzie was unable to attend the session because of pressure of government duties, and his prepared speech was read by Dr. K. K. Kay, chief of industrial hygiene in the health branch of the department of pensions and national health.

"DEMOCRACY AT WAR"

Also heard at the closing session was Dr. Brinley Thomas of London, England, who said that in a democracy at war "the authorities must resort increasingly to rationing, priorities and concentration." A lecturer in economics and finance at McGill University in Montreal, Dr. Thomas is on a special mission to North America, and is on call at the British embassy in Washington.

Dr. Thomas told delegates the task of national finance in wartime was "to see that nothing is decided on financial grounds" only.

"It is natural for a democracy at war to begin by placing most emphasis on fiscal or budgeting measures," he said, "but in this war these are quite inadequate by themselves. As the problems of physical scarcity became more acute, the authorities must resort increasingly to rationing, priorities and concentration."

THREE PHASES

He outlined three phases through which a democracy must pass "to turn itself into a fully-fledged war economy." Canada had passed from the first or peacetime phase, to the second phase in which most employable workers had jobs but were distributed in industry "in a manner very different from what the war effort requires."

Britain was well on in this second phase, and nearing the third, in which the war economy reached its maturity and the public "finally releases its peace-time grip on the resources of the country so the government can take over these resources for war purposes."

A leading problem of the second phase was to effect a rapid transfer of labor and equipment out of peacetime employment into war production. This meant that "as the part of the national income used by the government rises, the proportion spent by the public on itself must fall."

The third period would bring full employment of available man-power on a basis of maximum production and efficiency.

PHYSICAL FACTS

"The fact that we express values in monetary terms is apt to becloud the issue," said Dr. Thomas. "We must keep our minds on the physical facts. It is labor, raw materials and equipment that the government must have. The whole point of the war budgets and victory loan campaigns is to engineer their transfer from peacetime uses to war work."

To reach the fullest attainable degree of employment in war industries, the government had to "get into its hands that fraction of the nation's real income required to defray the cost of the war effort. The government can only carry out its war program effectively on condition that the public refrains from competing with it for use of scarce resources."

Vermilion Man New President Legion Branch

CALGARY, June 12.—(CP)—Active in the interests of veterans of the last war since 1918, S. C. Heckbert of Vermilion was unanimously elected Alberta president of the Canadian Legion for the next two years at the Alberta Command convention here Wednesday.

President Heckbert served overseas with the First Battery, Canadian Field Artillery of Halifax and upon his return to Canada joined the old Great War Veterans' Association at Chatham, N.B.

Since 1925 he has been an active member of the Canadian Legion at Vermilion and was the Alberta command vice-president for the past two years. He is president of the Vermilion Exhibition and of the Alberta Fairs' Association.

Election of Mr. Heckbert to the highest office in the Alberta command was made unanimous following the withdrawal of his name as a nominee by W. R. MacLaren, M.M., Edmonton, retiring Alberta president, who was presented with a badge of honor by Alex Walker, dominion president of the Legion.

Ralph Henderson, widely-known Calgary war veteran and president of the Calgary branch of the Legion, was unanimously elected vice-president of the Alberta command.

Walter Bullard, many times president of the Calgary branch, was elected dominion representative in a contest with W. R. MacLaren, who warmly congratulated him upon his election.

Many Employers Register Under Insurance Plan

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Canadian employers numbering 18,390 are already registered under the Unemployment Insurance Plan, the Unemployment Insurance Commission announced Wednesday night.

In making the announcement, Arthur MacNamara, acting chief commissioner, said employers who registered had indicated they would require 776,600 insurance books.

Under the plan each insurable employee is allotted by his employer an insurance book in which is recorded the employee's insurance payment record.

Labor Minister McLarty announced some time ago it was hoped to have the plan operating by July 1.

Six Provinces Have Accepted Ottawa's Plan

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Six provinces have indicated their intention of accepting the Dominion's suggestion that the provinces abandon the personal and corporation income tax field for the duration of the war and accept equivalent compensation from the federal treasury, Finance Minister Ilsley anounced Wednesday night during consideration of his estimates in the House of Commons.

The provinces are Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The minister gave this explanation when he struck from the estimates the appropriation of $5,475,000 covering special grants to these provinces.

He did not say whether or not the remaining three provinces had accepted.

In his budget speech the minister announced that these grants would be discontinued, and he made the announcement in connection with proposal to the provinces on the income tax.

When the motion was made to strike this item from the estimates the minister said "there is an item in the supplementary estimates for a very much larger amount that makes this unnecessary." He referred to the supplementaries brought down last Tuesday night for $45,000,000 to compensate the provinces which accept the income tax offer.

"There are special grants and all these are to be dropped with the provinces which accept the offer, and all these provinces have indicated their intention of doing so."

The grants were divided among six provinces as follows: New Brunswick $500,000; Nova Scotia $1,300,000; Prince Edward Island $275,000; Manitoba $750,000; Saskatchewan $1,500,000 and British Columbia $750,000.

Commons Hears Discussion On War Business

OTTAWA, June 12—(CP)—At a nine-hour sitting the House of Commons Wednesday made swift progress with the estimates, only government business remaining on the order paper, and moved closer to the long summer adjournment.

Sitting until midnight the House finished estimates for the agriculture department, passed all the fisheries department appropriations and all those for the finance department, which is the heaviest spender.

The finance department estimate was for $209,000,000, the bulk of which is taken up by national debt charges which are authorized by statute.

WAR MATERIAL

Government statements on war production and recruiting featured early discussions.

Munitions Minister Howe announced production of eight infantry tanks, from the Angus shops in Montreal is expected by the end of June, and a schedule of three tanks a day is expected early in July.

Defence Minister Ralston told the house that the recruiting campaign had brought in 32 per cent of the 32,000 men for whom an appeal was issued, or a total of 10,344 men attested since the campaign started May 11. It was to run for two months.

Both statements were in answer to questions asked by M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. house leader who said there was a feeling abroad that "all is not well" with the war effort.

A discussion on the manpower and material aspect of the war effort was part of a busy day which brought several important announcements from the government, and a violent attack upon certain ministers and public men by Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata).

HIGHLIGHTS OF SITTING

Following are some of the highlights of the day's sitting:

1—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced appointment of Joseph Thorson (Lib., Selkirk) as Minister of National War Services, relieving Hon. J. G. Gardiner who held the portfolio with that of Agriculture which he retains.

2—Mr. King, in a general statement on wheat and hemlock log shipments to Japanese account from British Columbia, said the permits were given with the knowledge and desire of the Brtish government and that other steps taken to prevent general export to Japan were taken as a safeguard against any incident occurring in Canada which might be construed in Japan as offensive, and not because Japan was looked upon as an enemy.

3—Defence Minister Ralston announced that soldiers on annual and embarkation leave would be permitted to buy return railway fares at one-third the price of a one-way fare, the government paying another third and the railways absorbing one-third.

4—Labor Minister McLarty announced legislation would be presented when parliament reconvenes requiring employers to reinstate enlisted employees after they have been demobilized.

Just before six o'clock Agriculture Minister Gardiner got through with the last item in his estimates, $500,000 for the Prairie Farm Assistance Act.

MUNITIONS SITUATION

Mr. Howe gave the house a picture of the munitions situation today as compared with a year ago.

More than $400,000,000 had been spent in constructing crown properties for the manufacture of shells, tanks, guns, automotive equipment, bombs and machine tools, and total orders placed to date exceeded $1,700,000,000.

He announced that Canada has already produced her first 25-pounder artillery gun and that it has passed all tests. In another plant, production of two-pounder guns had commenced.

A week ago Canada produced her first infantry tank and before the end of the month the first cruiser tank would be produced. Aircraft production was "more than 40 planes per week" of which 20 were fighting craft and the remainder training planes.

Ship orders had been placed to the extent of $50,000,000.

Generally speaking plants were coming into production at the times anticipated—"up to any anticipation that I have ever had," the minister said, "and I believe Canadian industry is capable of still further expansion."

COLDWELL CRITICAL

Mr. Coldwell said he had not made his inquiry to "invite the kind of statement which the minister of munitions has just made." He said such statements were not the kind of information the country was seeking.

There was a feeling in the country that the tank recently produced in Montreal was not "off the assembly line" but was "an article made especially for the occasion."

He had not wanted a statement that "Production has come up to our expectations," but either in a closed or open sitting of the house "we should be given specific information on our production of equipment."

This was the only parliament in the empire that had not held a closed sitting and members were no more familiar with the real situation than "any person who would read a newspaper or magazine," said Mr. Coldwell.

Morale of the people was "not as good as it ought to be," Mr Coldwell said, and that was something that might retard enlistments.

There was evidence that another depression was certain, he contended. Men already discharged after service in the present war had been forced to go on relief because they had no jobs to return to or positions they left had been filled.

PRODUCTION VOLUME

When Mr. Howe gave further information about tank production, stating it was not really an "assembly line" production as with motor cars, and that production was expected to reach three a day next month, Mr. Coldwell remarked: "That is just the kind of thing which I think the people should be informed about."

R. W. Mayhew (Lib. Victoria) said Canada had achieved remarkable success in industrial expansion but could do much more. Capacity was virtually unlimited and he appealed for more action.

He advised his constituents to prepare every plant available for capacity production, "but when I came to Ottawa I found that if one wants to streamline his plan he must have a permit to do it," Mr. Mayhew said.

"I have piled up around my plant at the present time over $100,000 worth of equipment. We must decide whether we are going to win this war by stingy methods or whether we are going to win it by working and by production."

Delegate Walks Out Of Assembly

TORONTO, June 12.—(CP)—Denouncing the action of the general assembly in refusing to admit Rev. C. P. Bradley, Australian minister, into the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, James Aiken, commissioner from Saskatoon, Wednesday walked out of the assembly in protest.

The elder from St. Andrew's Church, Saskatoon, walked out after he was refused permission to put before the assembly a petition signed by 1,500 members and well-wishers of the congregation who desired to have Rev. Mr. Bradley as their minister. He was refused because the petition did not come through the proper channels.

Moderator J. B. Skene of Vancouver said the petition from the congregation should have come through the Presbytery of Saskatoon in the usual way.

"For 15 years I served under the ministry of the late Rev. W. G. Brown, who taught us to do what is just and right and to take the consequences whatever they might be," said Mr. Aiken. "It is the last time you will ever call me to order in this court," he declared to the moderator. "I am not apologizing for anything I have done even if it was contrary to the action of the reports."

Community Security

Beating the "quota" seems to be a popular pastime in Alberta, with healthy rivalry among a growing number of communities as to which can leave it farthest behind in the Victory Loan race. On Tuesday twenty districts had reported subscriptions exceeding the amounts expected, Sexsmith out in front with 406.6 per cent of its allocation. The quota-breakers were scattered from Dawson Creek to Hardisty and from Jasper to Lloydminster, and dozens of others were within sight of their objectives.

Those districts where bonds are selling like hot cakes are districts where distress is bound to be less severe, and relief lines short, if depression should strike again five or ten years hence. Should that occur, a sheaf of Government bonds and war savings certificates will look like found money to a man who has lost his job and has no ready cash in his pocket or in the bank. The community where people are all putting part of today's earnings into these securities is a community where business will go on and family life will remain normal even should adverse conditions again afflict the world.

Congratulations are due to all who have the foresight to thus lay away something against the uncertainties of the future, and to the communities where this is being done by the residents generally. In helping to finance the war-effort the bond-buyers are protecting their own future; but they are also laying up spending power that will maintain the business interests and social conditions of the sections of country in which they live.

The Jackal Howls

Signor Mussolini emerged Tuesday from the silence that has so fittingly enshrouded him since the events of last winter in Libya. The day before his statistics keeper had broken to Italians the depressing news that a year of successive defeats had cost them more than a quarter of a million men; in addition to their East African empire, their national prestige, the bulk of their fleet, and the independence of their gestapo-infested homeland. This naturally called for a cheer-up oration, and Il Duce mounted the rostrum, behind a hedge of Fascist bayonets flanked by Nazi storm troopers, to tell his outraged subjects the war is going fine though it may not look that way.

There was nothing new in what he said to them. The British Empire was going to be torn to pieces; Japan would demolish the United States if it dared to interfere; and the grateful Fuehrer would throw some scraps of the dismembered democracies to Italy. Not a word as to any active part Italy was supposed to play in the grand project of conquest and plunder. "The Axis" and Japan were to do it all, the hearers being left to infer that the Axis still includes Benito and his Fascist brigands for military purposes—if they could forget the sorry record of the last twelve months.

A year ago Signor Mussolini crawled out of non-belligerency to play the role of jackal and grab a share of the spoils of a war he thought Hitler had all but won. He missed the expected meal and has been badly mauled. But he is still playing the role, depending upon Hitler and Japan to make the killing and let him in on the pickings.

The First Stage

The point of Mr. Churchill's speech on Tuesday was that Britain and its Allies will win the war by attacking the enemy, not by defending themselves.

That point we in Canada, and the peoples of all the Allied countries, should get clearly in mind and also put in its proper setting. This is the ultimate war policy, against which passing events are to be measured and to which all preparations must lead.

The fighting on the continent of Europe, in East and North Africa, the Battle of Britain and the Battle of the Atlantic, all have been and are essentially defensive. None of these operations has been a blow aimed at the vitals of the enemy. The purpose has been, as it had to be, to prevent the Axis gaining control over more territory and more people. Had the Allies been successful on every one of these fronts, they would still have the real job ahead of them.

Defensive war will have to change to offensive war. When it can be changed is for the military experts and governing authorities to foresee, and prepare for. We are as yet engaged in forging weapons to stop Axis drives and raids on land and sea, and can only recruit armies in keeping with this object.

When we shall attain superiority in planes, tanks, guns, and all other necessary tools, is a matter of conjecture, for the enemy is also straining every nerve to expand production of these things. And until we attain this superiority, we cannot take the offensive against Germany itself.

For the time, an indefinite time, the Allies must be content to multiply production of munitions, and raise armies as they can be equipped. Production must set the pace for recruiting.

Meanwhile it will help to prevent a slump in morale if the public remember that the war is yet only in the negative stage so far as the democracies are concerned. We are still only trying to "hold" the enemy. When we shall be able to take the aggressive and put him on the defensive depends on how fast the necessary tools can be turned out. If in the meantime there are further reverses, this will be because we have not yet overtaken the armament handicap—and should be a spur to still further effort.

About one-quarter of the needed 32,000 men have enlisted since the recruiting campaign was started three weeks ago. This is not breaking records, but the rate of enlistment has been growing rapidly in the last few days and there is no reason to suppose the required number will not be obtained. The progress of the Victory Loan campaign should react to help recruiting. Men are more likely to join up readily as they are certain they will be given the tools to fight with.

Gracie Field was not just making a pun when she said Nazi Germany is dropping its "Hesses." Haushofer, whom Hess introduced to Hitler, has been put in jail. And Admiral Bohn, another friend of Hess, naval commander in Norway, thought it best to commit suicide after he had been talked to by Gestapo chief Himmler. Whatever it betokens, the Hess branch of the heirarchy is being liquidated.

N. F. Davin's recent motion in parliament voices the universal sentiment of the country—that the policy of settlement and development has not been a success. This motion can scarcely be considered as other than a straight motion of want of confidence in the government, for it simply declares that the present policy is bad without saying how it is bad or in what way it can be amended. There is no doubt that the speculative handling of public lands by the government on behalf of itself and friends has been one of the greatest causes in stunting the growth of settlement. The pioneer will not consent to play jackal for a speculative lion, whether he be an individual, a company, a syndicate or a government. He wants to reap the reward of his own enterprise, energy and industry; and if that reward is being continually snapped from him by speculative schemes, or he is so hedged about by restrictions and regulations that he cannot make the very most of the opportunities which he sees around him, he is inclined to let the speculators have it all their own way, as he has done to the great loss of both the speculators and the country.

Germans' Naval Stupidity

Nazis May Be Good Pirates But Lack Sense of Sea Strategy

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The Royal Air Force is believed to have located and bombed at Brest the German cruiser Prinz Eugen, the ten thousand ton companion of the battleship Bismarck in its break into the North Atlantic last month.

The ships parted company shortly before the Bismarck was sunk, and although a widespread search was made, no trace was found of the hiding warship. Now, after two weeks, the R.A.F. is sure she has been found in the French Atlantic base.

Harold L. Weir

There is something very curious about this.

Why have the Germans sent a ship of the Prinz Eugen's size, presenting a fine target for British bombers, to a port which has been so frequently and successfully attacked by the R.A.F.?

Already two battleships of Germany's fleet, the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau, have been put out of action while docked at Brest.

Two Were Damaged

It is true that these latter two twenty-six thousand ton modern battleships are believed to have been damaged in action at sea and to have limped into Brest for repairs. There they were attacked by British planes while they were not in seagoing condition. They failed to move out of Brest and away from the dangers in the air because they were not able to move at all.

But the Prinz Eugen has not been reported in action; and with its 32 knots and wide cruising range might very well have eluded British patrols in the North Sea and reached a safer German haven.

Yet, it will be recalled that the Bismarck herself, crippled by aerial torpedoes from the fleet air arm, was headed for Brest when intercepted and sunk by the British fleet 400 miles west of the French port.

There seems to be a singular lack of common sense in these movements — a lack that affects all German naval operations.

Just Pirates

The plain truth is that the Germans are wanting in sea-consciousness and in other faculties that make the British, for instance, superb naval men.

Certainly the Germans are fine marksmen. Their gunnery is usually excellent. But this is due to their capacity for taking pains.

Moreover, they enjoy rather singular success in submarine warfare. This, however, illustrates a gift for piracy. For the tactics of the marauding submarine commander and the tactics of the old corsairs are exactly the same.

Anyone with a savage flair for assassination has a career open to him in the Nazi submarine service.

None of these things necessarily make for seamanship or for that instinct upon which naval strategy depends.

The Germans may be first-class gunners and pirates extraordinary, but they do not possess that sea sense that enables them to profit by naval experience — or even to get their ships out of the way of British bombers.

This lack of native naval ability is going to be a considerable factor in the war. It gives Britain's fleet an additional effectiveness beyond its numerical superiority.

Japan Is Deciding

Japan is expected to make a move within the next few hours to deal with the excruciating dilemma created by the refusal of the Dutch East Indies to accept Japan's "final" economic proposals.

For the past three days, high officials of the Japanese government, including cabinet members and army and navy representatives, have been deliberating the steps to be taken.

This decision, when it is reached, will be of considerable interest to the United States because it should provide the clue to Japan's real attitude towards America. Whether Japan adopts a cautious or a warlike position may indicate whether she desires to conciliate or challenge the United States.

If Dutch interests were not inextricably linked with those of Britain and the United States, it would be safe to predict that Japan would follow the same plan of violent behavior towards the Indies as was employed in subduing French Indo-China.

But this is no local problem. It is actually a question between Japan and the United States.

Several Courses Open

There are several lines of action open to the Japanese:

1. They could make another "final" effort to bring the Dutch to terms by offering a compromise plan.

2. They could withdraw their delegation from Batavia as a gesture of displeasure and maintain contact only through their consular officials.

3. They could sever diplomatic relations completely with the Indies.

For the time being, the Japanese may be satisfied with one or both of the first two alternatives. Neither would involve serious risk of war or sever the flow of essential war materials from the Indies to Japan. But either or both would intensify to a high degree the tension and uncertainty hanging over the Pacific.

This tension is advantageous to Japan for it worries the Dutch and British and keeps the American fleet static at Hawaii. This is Japan's little job for the Axis.

The third alternative, complete severance of relations, would be replete with grave risks and would be only one step from actual hostilities. Moreover, it would certainly result in diminution or interruption of the movement of Dutch goods to Japan.

Actually, the prospects of an early agreement in this quarter are slim indeed.

The situation may be regarded as providing portents rather than fuel for war.

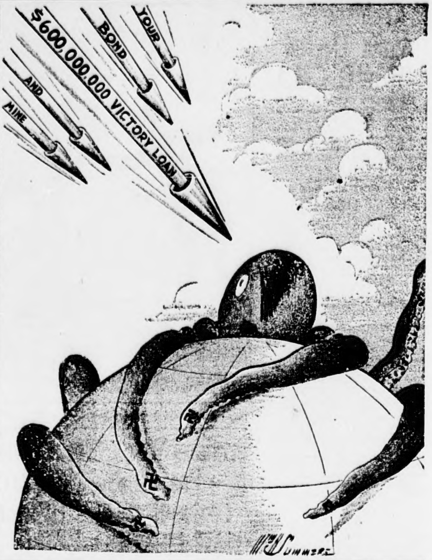
The Wrong Verdict

From The Australian Press Union

When the foreman of a Brisbane jury was asked for his verdict, he replied "guilty" and the jurors left the court. A minute later the foreman dashed back into the jury box and cried excitedly: "Not guilty! Not guilty was our verdict, a unanimous verdict of not guilty!"

The chief bailiff and a police officer raced along passages and up and down stairs to catch the jurors who were on their way home and the chase extended over two city blocks. Eventually all were mustered and the foreman gave the correct verdict.

Mr. Justice Mansfield said the procedure was rather irregular, but he did not see why the prisoner should be deprived of the benefit of the amended verdict.



"No Hostile Intentions" — Certainly Not!

All Hitler Wants Is Control of World—Objects to Fighting For It

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

A sensational, world-shaking, unique piece of news broke this week through John Cudahy, former American Ambassador to Belgium. The news is that Hitler has no hostile intentions against the United States.

Hitler uttered these words in the room that has now come to be known all over the world as the I-have-no-hostile-intentions room. It is the same room in which he had no hostile intentions toward Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Belgium, France, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Holland, Norway and Britain. We have become very familiar with this room and I wonder that priorities are not declared against cable tolls that tell us about the plate glass window and the Alps. In fact, I wonder what news is these days.

Dorothy Thompson

I also wonder what answers Mr. Cudahy expected to the particular questions he asked.

Did he expect Hitler to say, "Yes, of course, I have hostile intentions toward the United States. As my great friend and ally, Mussolini, has remarked, 'It is either we or you' "?

Let's pretend that Hitler had gotten really chummy with Mr. Cudahy. He might then have said:

"Your question, Mr. Cudahy, is a very old-fashioned one, and indicates that you know nothing of the modern technique of war and revolution. I have, of course, already invaded the United States. I began invading it as early as ten years ago, when I sent my first agents over to begin organizing persons of German descent. I organized them region by region, along an exact model of the National Socialist Party in Germany.

"My agents also established contacts with all the frustrated individuals and groups leading or attempting to lead anti-Jewish mass movements. These people we furnished with funds, and with immense amounts of propaganda.

"In your country, Mr. Cudahy, I spend about eight million dollars a year for the influencing of public opinion. This is much cheaper than sending in an army, and very much easier. This propaganda does not merely attempt to make Americans approve of Nazi ideas. You have quite mysterious prejudices in this respect. It is designed to influence the outcome in your internal politics, and by dividing you to make it impossible for you ever effectively to resist me.

"Since I signed up with Stalin, I have made enormous strides in your country, because the collaboration program is universal. I inherited from Stalin, for instance, a really remarkable network of Communist cells inside your most important trade unions. With the Nazi cells that my agents have organized among the men of German descent in America, and the Communist cells with which they are now collaborating, I am successfully sabotaging your defense industries.

"Stalin and I together, for instance, called the Allis-Chalmers strike. It was just a dress rehearsal for what we intend to do once we have gotten Britain off our hands. There has got to be a new order, you know—a new order for the world—and Germany must have security. We cannot tolerate that a great and powerful country like yours should remain a standing challenge to the National Socialist Weltanschauung. But I should not dream of sending an army across three thousand miles of ocean to attempt to invade you. I shall, on the contrary, see to it that I am invited to come, bringing merely an honor guard with me, to be welcomed on the White House steps by a President who will have already switched the United States into line.

From the Inside

"I, Mr. Cudahy, never do anything myself that I can get others to do for me. Taking America from inside will not be at all difficult once Britain is finished. First of all, you will have to trade either with me or with Japan, or Russia, because there will be nobody else left to trade with. I need hardly say that our policies will be mutually coordinated, in peace as in war, so you will have to trade with us on our terms.

"But I do not see why you should worry about this. As my agents have already explained to a great number of intelligent Americans who have factories with goods to sell, or manage large amounts of surplus agricultural products, such trade could be very profitable for the United States, especially for those interests which ardently wish collaboration with me. We would, of course, favor those firms that will further our policies. We would not wish them to advertise in any newspapers that criticized Nazi ideas. We would want to have something to say about their boards of directors. That's fair enough, isn't it?

"And, of course, since business and work and government are all very closely integrated in the United States, it would be absolutely necessary for you to have a government satisfactory to us.

Price of Peace

"I cannot understand why I have constantly been forced to make war, greatly against my will, merely because misled people have insisted on governments of their own choosing. If only Britain would have let me pick its government, there would have been no war, Mr. Cudahy. Is that not a very small price to pay for peace?

"Everything I do, Mr. Cudahy, I do for peace. If you have read my book, you will recall that I made perfectly clear the only way that peace will ever come to this suffering planet. I said, 'The pacifist humane ideal might be a very good one if first one man had made himself master of the world.'

"I am undertaking a great work of liberation. For instance, India. I think I shall let Stalin take India. I am sure that he will bring it a greatly improved culture. I have openly offered Canada to the United States and if you will put into office a government satisfactory to me, I am willing to give you control over Mexico and Central America. Of course, your policies will have to coincide with mine at every point.

"But don't worry about invasion, Mr. Cudahy. My people are there already; I did not send them, I found them. All that you need is new leadership.

"But don't quote me, Mr. Cudahy. Schmidt, hand Mr. Cudahy the stock interview. The one entitled, 'No hostile intentions'."

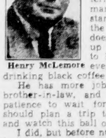
"Little Flower" Never Folds

New York's LaGuardia Busiest Busy Bee in Garden of Politics

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK.—A well known busy bee flew into Fiorello LaGuardia's office the other day and, after taking one look at New York's mayor at work, shot himself for vagrancy.

He left behind a note to his fellows saying: "Take off your merit badges, boys. Quit strutting. He's got us licked." Even Maeterlinck couldn't question the bee's decision. LaGuardia is one "Little Flower" who never folds. He is doing more work in 24 hours these days than most politicians do in a term of office. In fact, many officeholders would stand for re-election on the strength of what he does in one day. He gets up with the sun and goes to bed at about the time even grownup owls are drinking black coffee to keep awake.



Henry McLemore

He has more jobs than an alderman's brother-in-law, and if you haven't the patience to wait for Halley's comet you should plan a trip to New York city hall and watch this ball of fire at work.

I did, but before noon I felt that I needed two weeks' vacation at the seashore. Being a man who thinks twice before stirring himself once, it wore me out to watch LaGuardia handle the problems of New York city, take care of the affairs of the National Conference of Mayors, of which he is the head, run the business of the joint defense board of Canada and the United States, and hurl his five feet two inches into the task of organizing all civilian defense in this country.

Eight Secretaries

He has eight secretaries and the only time they get a rest is during the one minute of silence on Armistice Day.

He has more visitors than Yellowstone Park. Every one in New York with any trouble, be it about a blight that has struck his pet nasturtium or disappointment over not getting a permit to hold an Easter egg hunt in Times Square, rides down to see LaGuardia.

While I leaned, exhausted, against a wall in City Hall, this 59-year-old blueprint of a perpetual motion machine talked to half a hundred callers, read 500 letters, dictated like an articulate octopus to a squad of secretaries, and completed plans for the rest of his day's work.

The mayor only uses the City Hall as a sort of bull-pen in which he warms up for his real work. New York's airport, LaGuardia Field, is aptly named. He uses it so much that he should have a permanent hangar. He thinks nothing of a daily schedule that finds him at his desk in the morning, Chicago in the afternoon, Washington in the evening and midnight back at his desk.

Back Seat Driver

LaGuardia is the country's fiercest back-seat driver—ask his secretaries who help him carry on his work in the back seat of his limousine. Propped up on the cushions, his legs too short to reach the floor, he dictates, digests and telephones as he travels to lay cornerstones, wield the first acetylene torch at the tearing down of an El, address a graduating class, christen a boat, turn the first spadeful at a new project, or take a box seat at a four-alarm fire.

The mayor, who hasn't missed a fire since Tammany Hall burned its records during the Seabury investigation, says he really doesn't like fires and only gets to them out of a sense of duty. The fact remains, however, that he nearly always beats the fireman and the moths to the flames.

LaGuardia recently opened a branch office in Washington and broke a historic precedent when he refused new furniture. Said the old stuff was good enough, and sat right down and went to work. This won't help his prestige in a city where a man's rank is determined in a great degree by the number of birds' eyes in the maple of his desk, the grade of carpet on which he calls his subordinates, and the architectural lines of his water cooler.

But he'll do all right, I guess.

Maybe the "Little Flower" will turn out to be the century plant, or better still, the plant of the century, insofar as the government is concerned.

Dogs Of War

From The Leeds Yorkshire Post

Dante of Lyndene sneered with aristocratically lifted lip, cocked his wolf-like ears, glanced with bright, intelligent eyes about him, and growled querulously. Other dogs of assorted breeds, pedigrees, and sizes crouched by their owners, distrustful, like Dante, of the big room and many strangers.

White-coated Mr. W. P. Hirst, of the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals, introduced each dog in turn to the examiner—Mr. H. S. Lloyd, chief instructor of the War Dogs' school. On behalf of the War Office he was attending the Dewsbury Road, Leeds, branch of the P.D.S.A. to inspect dogs offered, on loan or for sale, to undergo training to fit them for patrol reconnaissance and messenger service with the army.

Every type of dogs from the alert-looking Alsations to Irish setters with their great liquid-gold eyes, was paraded for judgment. Mr. J. Burdekin, of Ossett, brought his majestic English mastif bitch, Bess, "with a pedigree as long as your arm," Mrs. A. Cunningham her black Alsatian, Tony, whose grandfather served as a message-carrier in the last war. "Tony has had some training already; and although I shall hate to part with him I'd like to think he was doing his bit," she told me.

Best age for training purposes, Mr. Hirst said, is between one and three years; and, although the government had already appealed to well-known breeders for dogs, this was the first occasion in the provinces when the public had been asked to bring in private pets to take their share of the war effort. Most of the dogs were offered on loan or as a gift.

"Have Carried On"

From The London Times

Mr. J. H. Brebner, director of the news division of the ministry of information, speaking at a luncheon of the Authors' Club in London, paid a tribute to the manner in which British newspapers have carried on in spite of air raids. Newspaper offices at Coventry were wrecked during the raid, but through the foresight of the industry these newspapers were published at rival offices in Birmingham and distributed by motor-van.

Coventry's experience had been repeated in different parts of the country. Plymouth newspapers were printed at Exeter; Southampton papers at Bournemouth, and so on. In spite of the failure of gas and electricity during the fire of London, the national newspapers appeared next morning, some of their offices having no fewer than four alternative methods of heating—gas, coal, wood, and oil. By thus carrying on, the newspaper prevented the spread of wild rumors.

The newspapers recorded the daily acts of heroism of sailors, airmen, soldiers, and civil defence workers, but did not tell of the heroic actions of reporters and photographers who risked their lives so that the public should learn the truth.

In turning over the pages recording the Battle of Britain, the public did not know that the Dover hotel from which the journalists were covering the story was wrecked by bombs and shells and people killed. Nor, as they praised a wonderful picture of the fire of London, did they visualize the press photographer with bombs falling near him, or perched on some risky building intent only on getting his picture.

Timely Booklet

A timely booklet on Canada has been published by The London Life Insurance Company, entitled "This Canada of Ours." The booklet gives a popular account of the Dominion and how its citizens help feed, clothe and house the people of the world. Opened out, the cover gives a graphic map of Canada showing twenty-seven types of workers, each in his own locality. A centre spread depicts the same map illustrating the natural resources, products and animal life of the country. Maps and numerous illustrations throughout the booklet are in color. Advertising material is confined to a brief historical note at the end.

"The booklet will be given wide distribution by our sales organization," J. H. Castle Graham, publicity executive, The London Life, advises. "Coming at this particular time, we trust it will aid both in the war effort and in the Victory Loan campaign."

Facts of public interest regarding the civilian and military production of one of Canada's larger industries are presented in a new all-Canadian publication, "Ford Times," the first issue of which is now being circulated. This publication portrays the answer of one Canadian company to Winston Churchill's plea, "Give us the tools." It shows how the more than 12,000 workers in the company's plant at Windsor, Ontario, produce mechanical transport of many types in such numbers that Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, has become the largest single source of this equipment in the British Empire.

Insurance Man Dies On Trail

MAYO, Y.T., June 12.—(By Air Mail)—Garnet C. Watt, sourdough insurance man of the Yukon and one of the country's most colorful characters, dropped dead on the lonely overland trail Sunday while hiking to the Barker mining camp on Hoggart Creek.

His body was found early Monday morning at a point one mile past the McQuesten river. Corporal W. W. Sutherland, R.C.M.P., left Mayo this forenoon with a truck and a party of seven men to pack the remains out to the main government road for transit to town.

Watt arrived here by plane last week from Whitehorse on his annual trip to the Mayo district. For the past number of years he had been manager for Yukon and northern British Columbia for the Mutual Life. For two successive years he led the company's staff in western Canada for total insurance sold.

His wife and child reside in Vancouver. A brother, Norman Watt, is government agent at Prince Rupert, while also surviving is a sister Floss.

KNOWN TO THOUSANDS

Garnett Watt was long connected with the Yukon, and was known to thousands from Vancouver to Dawson City. He and his brother Norman came to the Yukon in the early boom days of the gold rush, and were partners in Dawson City with "Duff" Pattullo, present premier of British Columbia. He was born in Ottawa about 60 years ago. During his youth he was a famous hockey player and was one of the prime movers in organizing the famous Boyle hockey team which went out from Dawson in the early days to play for the Stanley cup.

No Foolin': This Really Happened

FAIRVIEW, Alta., June 12—Firm believer that the British Empire will free the world of Nazi domination is William John Hayes, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes of Eureka River. In the Fairview hospital the other day Willie underwent an operation for the extraction of his tonsils. Coming out of the ether, and to the intense merriment of his attendants, young Hayes boldly cried: "We'll knock the h--l out of Germany!"

FAUST, Alta., June 12—An outhouse near Faust was put of of commission reecntly, by a purely innocent mink. A local mink farmer lost one of the highly-prized animals and an intensive search failed to retrieve it. Eventually the animal was seen sneakng under the floor of the outhouse and in an effort to capture it more noises were heard. They were the "voices" of a newly-born litter. The building was nailed up with a sign of explanation.

Rural Folk Mourn Deaths Of Friends, Relatives Recently

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

BAWLF, Alta., June 12—Two of this district's most respected pioneer citizens died recently in the persons of Mrs. Sine Johnson and G. I. Anderson.

Mrs. Johnson was born in 1885 in Denmark. Coming to Wisconsin in 1883 she was married a year later to Lars Thomsen. They were among the first pioneers to establish a Danish colony at Tyler, Minn. In 1912 they bought a farm north of Bawlf. They moved into the town several years later, where Mr. Thomsen died in 1922. In 1925 she married Hans Johnsen who died in 1936.

For the past two years she had lived with a daughter, Mrs. Hansine Oleberg.

Mr. Anderson, who died Saturday evening, was born in Iowa in 1862. He located on a homestead southeast of Bawlf in 1902 when horses and oxen were the only means of transportation to and from Wetaskiwin, the nearest railway town at that time.

He was a member of the Bawlf Lutheran church and for many years was chairman of the Firtle school board. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, four sons and eight grandchildren. Two daughters predeceased him.

BASHAW, Alta., June 11—Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Jane Jarvis, 78, district pioneer who died at her home here following a brief illness, were held recently from St. Peter's church.

Mrs. Jarvis was born in Ireland, where she married John Jarvis. The couple came to Canada early in their career, settling in Wiarton, Ont. In 1905 they homesteaded three miles south of Bashaw. Mrs. Jarvis was a prominent chnurch worker. Three of her sons served in the first Great War.

Surviving are seven sons, 17 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. Her husband died in 1939. Pallbearers were her six oldest sons. Interment was made in the Bashaw cemetery.

Putting The Victory Loan Over The Top

JASPER—Honor pennant is now floating proudly from the flagpole in front of the Administration building in Jasper Park. The mountain resort town is well over its Victory Loan quota of $17,000. Lady Byng raised the honor flag in the presence of Victory Loan campaign officials, citizens and a cheering group of students from Jasper school.

The Jasper Junior Chamber of Commerce was the first of local organizations to place its funds in Canada's all-out effort for victory and when President Jack Raeside received a Victory bond from the hand of District Organizer A. A. Sherriff he said, "Tanks and guns are more vital to all of our interests right now. Our swimming pool can wait. We will enjoy it better after we have won the war."

Saturday was the biggest day yet in Jasper's campaign. Nearly $8,000 was subscribed.

GLENDON—F. W. Speak, of Flat Lake, is local war loan canvasser here. He states that one farmer has subscribed for $10,000 and a number of others for $1,000 or more. The canvass is meeting a good reception here.

Gleaned From Rural News

STETTLER—Members of the I.O.D.E. Frontenac chapter Saturday evening staged a pie and coffee sale in the Crown Hardware building. About $40 was cleared for the war fund.

GLENDON—Rev. M. Pasichnyk of Mundare conducted Whitsunday services in the Greek Catholic church here. The holiday was celebrated by Glendon Ukrainians along with the King's birthday.—Herbert Larson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Larson of his district has enlisted with the R.C.N.—Kenneth Howatt, recent resident, suffered a fractured leg at Lac La Biche recently when he was kicked by a horse.

STETTLER—Occupants of a car that blew a tire on the highway five miles east of here Friday received a severe shaking up but no other injuries.

He Had A New Job: But He Got A Free Shower In The Bargain

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MAYO, Y.T., June 12—(By Airmail)—At least one young Mayo man is finding out that a change of jobs may mean more than a rest. He is Jack Andison and his father, J. G. Andison is manager here for Burns and Co. Ltd. For years Jack has been chief warehouseman in Mayo for the Treadwell Yukon Co. Ltd., but this spring he decided to quit his job with the mining company and head for Whitehorse where he had been offered another position.

So, at a late date this spring, Jack hit out for Whitehorse on his motorbike. The trails were in bad shape and he found the going exceedingly tough. After travelling all one day he managed to cover 26 miles of the soggy, overland trail. He crossed the main Stewart river at the end of his first day's journey and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs Rennie Burian who have a wood camp at the 26-mile post. Bright and early the next morning Jack arose to continue his long overland ride to Whitehorse. But to his amazement the Stewart river had slid out during the night and there was no way to get his motorbike across the river to the trail on the opposite bank. He left his machine at the 26-mile, hiked a long distance up the river until he came to a place where he could cross on foot and came back to Mayo.

Jack felt a little sheepish about the way the river sneaked out on him but determined to catch the next southbound plane for Whitehorse and his new job. Walking down towards the plane office he suddenly heard someone shouting at him from across the street. Ed. Barker, manager of the Haggart Creek Mining Co., came out of a nearby store and asked young Andison if he would take a job with him for the summer running a dragline scraper. He accepted.

Haggart Creek is 50 miles from Mayo and once the winter trail breaks up there is no way to go in and out to the mining camp except on foot. A trip has to be made to town at least once a month or whenever a breakdown occurs and spare parts are needed for the mining machinery. Jack, being the only married man in the camp whose wife and family reside in Mayo, is generally delegated to make the long trip in from the mine.

PACK OF GRIEF

It was while on such a trip two days ago that Jack ran into a pack of grief. Hot weather has turned Haggart Creek, usually a small stream, into a roaring river. In attempting to cross the stream on a small log he was swept into the ice-cold waters and just narrowly escaped from a watery grave. However, he made shore and mushed on another 10 miles to the McQuesten River, where there is a small cabin. He spent three hours there "drying out," and then continued the long, lonely hike to Mayo. The trail is almost entirely through bush country and a lone hiker must keep a wary eye open for grizzly bears. But although he ran across many tracks on his recent trip Jack was lucky enough to miss an encounter with one of these ugly brutes. He arrived in town tired, footsore and sleepy after nearly 12 hours on the trail.

But from now on young Andison wont have to worry much about walking. When the S.S. Keno arrived here last week on its first trip into port of Mayo this season, his motorbike was aboard. When Jack returns to the mining camp at Haggart he will be riding his trusty machine and worrying little about bears or any other wild animals. But he still has to figure out some way to get his motorcycle across the swollen Haggart River. This time Jack says hell take no more chances on trying to cross on a single log. Too risky, he declares.

3,500 Present At Military Display

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMBE, Alta., June 12.—Over 3,500 persons, estimated to be the largest crowd to have witnessed the military display in its present tour, turned out to witness a demonstration of Bren guns and a military parade here Wednesday evening. The parade was a combined one, with outside units and two local military groups joining with the Lacombe Victory Loan parade.

Behind the car of Mayor Thomas Wilkes in the parade came the torch car, a detachment of Mounted Police, a band of 24 pieces under Sgt. Kirke, soldiers on foot, a Bren gun carrier and men from the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Next in line came the local I.O.D.E. car, school cadets under Subaltern Reg. Wilkes and Bob Moore, I.O.D.E. representatives and Victory Loan cars. Also in the parade were local units of the V.V.R., Lacombe unit of the 17th Field Ambulance and the Edmonton Fusiliers, a second military band, the Ponoka Boys' Band, seven army trucks and members of the C.G.I.T.

IN CHARGE

In charge of the display at the park after the parade were Major P. J. A. Fleming, officer commanding; Lieut. R. Raymont and Lieut. A. P. Kent, former Calgary newspaperman, who was born in Lacombe 34 years ago. The display included a small arms demonstration to music, rapid gun fire with blank shells, various manoeuvres and a grand finale of Bren gun work under smoke screen protection.

Anti-tank guns and "Tommy" gun demonstrations were also given by the soldiers. There were 90 officers and other ranks in the party and at the conclusion of their display they were supplied with refreshments at the pavilion by the local branch of the Lions' Club. Major Davidson of Calgary and a medical board interviewed prospective recruits in the headquarters tent during the evening.

JASPER JOTTINGS

Visitors to Jasper Park often notice the attractive little bird house over the door of the bank building. Ever since it was placed there swallows have nested each year. There is hardly a home in Jasper without some bird visitor returning yearly and they are watched for like old friends. Bluebirds, robins and swallows are definitely on the increase.

Canada geese find Talbot Lake on the Edmonton-Jasper highway a favorite nesting place and now quite a number can be seen by motorists along the highway near their nesting places on the lake shore.

Last Friday afternoon the tuneful music of the Rocky Mountain Rangers band of Prince Rupert entertained a large crowd near the Administration building. They had been touring British Columbia in the interests of the Victory Loan and gave a splendid concert during the forty minutes wait between trains.

A well-attended meeting of ratepayers of Jasper discussed the needed extension of the present school building Thursday evening. The chairman of the school board, D. S. McCready presided and it was decided to set a day in the near future when everyone would be able to cast a ballot on this question. The proposed extension will provide science and shop rooms in the basement, a large auditorium on the first floor with provision for use as a gymnasium and two additional class rooms on the second floor.

Lady Byng has returned to the coast after enjoying a pleasant holiday in Jasper Park. She visited many favorite spots and enjoyed remmebered trails. During her stay in Jasper she took a keen interest in th Victory Loan campaign and followed closely the rising thermometer in the centre of the town. She spent the weekend at the Icefield Chalet and was delighted with the first shy alpines that have made their appearance.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

There is an old bridge saying that a singleton king over the ace always makes. But once in a while the king is caught, much to the chagrin of the owner. This usually comes about from a safety play.

Harry Fishbein, playing in the recent Vanderbilt Hournament, sat West in today's hand. The bidding was rather optimistic, and I don't wonder that South felt insulted and doubled. The first two tricks were won by the ace and king of spades, and the third by the jack. Then North, trying to get his partner back in the lead, returned a club. Dummy played the jack, South the king, and West the ace.

Fishbein, seeing that South probably held the king of hearts, counted that he could now make contract if he could win four diamonds besides two hearts and three clubs. But the diamond finesse looked dangerous, for if it lost he would be set at once.

He decided to make a safety play in diamonds by cashing the ace first. If he then lost a trick to the king in the North hand, he might get an extra heart trick to make up for it. If South held the guarded king, the hand was hopeless anyhow.

The fall of South's singleton king was a just reward for his decision. But more was to come. Fishbein cashed his clubs before running the diamonds. The last diamond was won in dummy, and South found himself squeezed.

Dummy held one spade and two hearts, while West held three hearts. South could not hold stoppers in both spades and hearts. Fishbein thus made four-odd, doubled at three.

Detroit Area Center Powder Magazine Of Arsenal Of Democracy

By LELAND STOWE

DETROIT, June 12. — If America is the "arsenal of democracy," Detroit's vast industrial area is the centre powder magazine of that arsenal. Here hundreds of factories, employing nearly 500,000 workmen, buzz with activity day and night as they turn out an enormous variety of national defence equipment at an ever-ascending tempo. Within a radius of 50 miles is concentrated such formidable productive capacity as probably exists nowhere else in the world with equal power, compactness and efficiency—and this productive capacity, fully harnessed, is operating as never before.

After a three-day inspection of the biggest defence contract plants in and around Detroit it is simply impossible to be a defeatist about American rearmament, the full tide of production will only begin to flow next winter, that's true. But already American mechanical aptitude and American organizing ability have achieved wonders in the face of staggering handicaps in regard to tooling and shortage of skilled labor, and despite the necessity of building from the ground up for the manufacture of tanks, airplanes, engines, machine guns and the like.

Leland Stowe

Every gigantic factory, whether belonging to General Motors, Chrysler, Ford or some other company, roars and hums with an extraordinary activity that is the most devastating answer to pessimists of whatever category.

EXCLUSIVE

NEAR MIRACLES

In three days we have seen only a fraction of Detroit's industrial powder magazine but we have seen the iron-and-steel reality of near miracles of construction and engineering genius.

We have learned such facts as these: That Chrysler already has 40,000 out of 65,000 employees toiling on defence jobs; that General Motors now attacking more than $1,000,000,000 worth of defence orders, has 50,000 more men working today than one year ago; that Ford will soon have nearly 25,000 men devoted to the production of the consolidated B-24 D bomber alone, yet this accounts for only one out of 10 big defence specialties that the Ford empire is handling.

It is truly amazing to observe what the automotive industry has accomplished in one year's time in the field, entirely new to automobile experts, of airplane and tank construction and many other armaments projects.

Although American firms started absolutely from scratch, they have certainly far outstripped Nazi Germany for speed and efficiency at this stage of construction, tooling and initial production.

JUSTIFIED WORRIES

You get the feeling that Adolf Hitler has plenty of justified worries when he contemplates what will be done in huge new plants, like these in the Detroit area, within the next year. Maybe that goes far to explain these presistent reports about another Nazi peace offensive.

Out at Ford's Rifer Rouge jungle of factories in Dearborn we toured the magnificently laid out $23,000,000 plant that is just getting ready to turn out a first-round order of 4,236 Pratt & Whitney airplane engines. It will finally produce one engine every hour, but arrangements are already under way to double that ratio in total output.

NEARING COMPLETION

Ford's Willow Run aircraft plant, an $18,000,000 layout, is nearing completion, and one year from now will be in active production with a goal of 10 planes a day. These consolidated B-24-D bombers are described as the most formidable bombers yet developed. They weigh 21 tons and can carry four tons of bombs at 300 miles an hour, with a cruising range of 3,000 miles.

Ford engineers have bent their energies to simplifying manufacturing methods as much as possible in order to streamline airplane production along lines familiar in automobile industries, accordingly they have broken down the consolidated bomber into 72 units. They believe this unit method should greatly increase the speed of production. What this may mean can be appreciated when you consider that there are more than 27,000 different parts in one of these bombers. Bringing them together in 72 different units promises a new forward step for airplane manufacturing.

BEGIN IN SEPTEMBER

The Ford plant's production of Pratt & Whitney engines will begin in September.

Last July 12 Ford engineers, for the first time in their lives, went to work to design a Ford airplane that would contain forward steps over all existing models. Today they have virtually completed a remarkable liquid-cooled engine capable of 1,850 horsepower, although it weighs only 1,650 pounds. This promises to set a new low in the ratio of weight to horsepower.

The Ford engine is expected to develop and maintain about 1,800 horsepower up to 32,500 feet—which is way up in the clouds where all stratospheric aerial combat is now climbing, and the highest flying machines will enjoy an enormous advantage.

TREMENDOUS CAPACITIES

Wherever you go in the Detroit industrial area you discover American industry on the march. Stupendous productive capacities are being created. Acres and acres of plant floor space are covered with the most modern machine tools and equipment. Jobs that were utterly unfamiliar a year ago are being done with precision. Engineering research and designing continue at a steady, confident pace. All this leaves you rather breathless and all run out of adjectives, but in constitutes just about the most heartening spectacle that any patriotic American could hope to encounter.

Most impressive of all in this undeniable fact. It required from two to three years for German industry to lay the groundwork and achieve the first-stage production that American industry has achieved in one short year. The Nazi tempo never equaled at the start what has been done here at the start. There can be no question, it seems to me, that American arms production will be challenging Nazi industrial output within another year as it has never been challenged before. There can also be no question about America's ability eventually to surpass continental European production, and probably sooner than most of us think.

In the House of Lords he will be reunited with another Canadian peer and ardent Empire supporter, Lord Beaverbrook, a business colleague in his early years in Canada and until recently his boss at the ministry of aircraft production.

The viscountcy is of historic interest. Several public men prominent in the service of Canada have received baronies at various times but Lord Bennett is the first former prime minister upon whom a peerage has been conferred.

HONOR FOR MASSEY

Mr. Massey is the second Canadian named to the Privy Council in recent months. The other is Arthur Purvis, chairman of the North American supply council. The distinction entitles the bearer to the prefix "right honorable."

Men and women in all walks of life from cabinet ministers to civil defence workers are named in the list, which will be supplemented July 1, when military honors are to be announced.

Two ministers receive high honors. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, become a Companion of Honor, sharing the distinction with Prime Minster Churchill, who received the decoration in 1922. The exclusive order is limited to 50 members and carries no title or precedence.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air become a Knight of the Thistle.

Three new barons are named—Professor F. A. Lindemann, Mr. Churchill's personal assistant, Sir Robert Vansittart, formerly chief diplomatic adviser to the government, and Sir Wilfred Greene, Master of the Rolls.

Sir Miles Lampson, British ambassador to Egypt, is named with Mr. Massey to the Privy Council.

BARONETCIES BESTOWED

Baronetcies are bestowed on F. D. D'Arcy Cooper, chairman of the Executive committee of the export council of the Board of Trade, and on Ronald Cross, high commissioner designate to Australia and former minister of shipping, now visiting in Canada.

Norman Birkett, K.C., noted barrister, Dennis Leo Daley, Lord Mayor of Portsmouth, and George Parker Morris, air raids precautions controller and town clerk of Westminster, are among the new knights bachelor.

Ronald Ian Campbell, former British minister to Yugoslavia, and Rear Admiral Arthur Eustance Bromley, who has probably met more Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen than any British official, are made knight commanders of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

As ceremonial and reception secretary of the Dominions and Colonial Offices, Admiral Bromley greets members of the Dominions forces when they arrive at British ports. His wife is a daughter of the late Hon. James Dunsmuir, of Victoria, B.C.

WAR WORKERS REWARDED

Walter Crossfield Hankinson, principal secretary of the United Kingdom high commissioner's office in Canada, is honored with a companionate in the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

There is a long list of C.B.E., O.B.E., and British empire medal decorations for civilians playing an important part, and sometimes heroic, part in Britain's war effort.

Munitions and aircraft factory officials, port authorities and health administrators share awards with air raids precautions, auxiliary fire service, women's voluntary services, and Red Cross workers in bombed towns and cities.

The list concludes with awards of the King's police and fire service medals, some of these going to men who have died or risked their lives in the performance of duty during air raids.

Unknown Cyclist Blamed By Jury For Man's Death

CALGARY, June 12—(CP)—An unknown cyclist was blamed by a coroner's jury for the death of Hans Callesen, 65, who died May 16 in hospital after being injured in a street accident the day previously.

The jury decided Callesen's death was due to heart condition arising from a fractured hip and shock suffered when he was knocked down.

Coroner Dr. George R. Johnson concurred in the finding, stating that intensive police investigation had failed to produce the guilty cyclist. The bicycle rider never reported the accident to police and has not been seen since.

Text Of Churchill Speech To Allies' Conclave

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—The text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech at the conference of representatives of the British Empire and its Allies follows:

In the twenty-second month of the war against Nazism we meet here in this old palace of St. James, itself not unscarred by the fire of the enemy, in order to proclaim the high purposes and resolves of the lawful, constitutional governments of Europe, whose countries have been overrun, and we meet here also to cheer the hopes of free men and free peoples throughout the world.

Here before us on the table lie the title deeds of 10 nations or states whose soil has been invaded and polluted and whose men, women and children lie prostrate or writing under the Hitler yoke.

DULY AUTHORIZED

But here, also, duly authorized by the parliament and democracy of Britain, are gathered the servants of the ancient British monarchy and accredited representatives of the British dominions beyond the seas, of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, of the Empire of India, of Burma, and of our colonies in every quarter of the globe.

They have drawn their swords in this couse. They will never let them fall till life is gone or victory is won.

Here we meet while from across the Atlantic ocean the hammers and lathes of the United States signal in a rising hum their message of encouragement and their promise of swift and ever-growing aid.

What tragedies, what horrors, what crimes has Hitler, and all that Hitler stands for, brought upon Europe and the world. The ruins of Warsaw, of Rotterdam, of Belgrade, and monuments which will long recall to future generations the outrage of unopposed air bombing applied with calculated, scientific cruelty to helpless populations.

MARKS OF DEVASTATION

Here in London and throughout the cities of our island, and in Ireland, there may also be seen the marks of devastation. They are being repaid and presently they will be more than repaid.

But far worse than these visible injuries is the misery of the conquered peoples. We see them hounded, terrorized, exploited. Their manhood by the million is forced to work under conditions indistinguishable in many cases from actual slavery. Their goods and chattels are pillaged or filched for worthless money.

SPIED UPON

Their homes, their daily life are pried into and spied upon by the all-pervading system of secret political police, which having reduced the Germans themselves to abject docility now stalks the streets and byways of a dozen lands.

Their religious faiths are affronted, persecuted or oppressed in the interests of a fanatic paganism devised to perpetuate the worship and sustain the tyranny of one abominable creature. Their traditions, their culture, their laws, their institutions, social and political alike, suppressed by force or undermined by subtle, coldly-planned intrigue.

Prisoners of the continent no longer suffice. The concentration camps are overcrowded. Every dawn German volleys crack. Czechs, Poles, Dutchmen, Norwegians, Yugoslavs and Greeks, Frenchmen, Belgians, Luxembourgers make the great sacrifice for faith and country.

A vile race of Quislings—to use a new word which will carry the scorn of mankind down the centuries—is hired to fawn upon the conqueror to collaborate in his designs and to enforce his rule upon their fellow countrymen while grovelling low themselves. Such is the plight of once glorious Europe and such are the atrocities against which we are in arms.

MOCKING FANTASY

Your excellencies, my lords and gentlemen, it is upon this foundation that Hitler, with his tattered lackey Mussolini at his tail and Admiral Darlan frisking by his side, pretends to build out of hatred, appetite and racial assertion a new order for Europe. Never did so mocking a fantasy obsess the mind of mortal man. We cannot tell what the course of this fell war will be as it spreads remorseless through ever-wider regions.

It will not be by German hands that the structure of Europe will be rebuilt or union of the European family achieved. In every country into which German armies and Nazi police have broken, there has sprung up from the soil a hatred of the German name and contempt for the Nazi creed which the passage of hundreds of years will not efface from human memory.

We know it will be hard. We expect it will be long; we cannot predict or measure its episodes or its tribulations. But one thing is certain, one thing is sure, one thing stands out stark and undeniable, massive and unassailable, for all the world to see.

We cannot yet see how deliverance will come or when it will come, but nothing is more certain than that every trace of Hitler's footsteps, every stain of his infected, corroding fingers will be sponged and purged and, if need be, blasted from the surface of the earth.

We are here, Your Excellencies, to affirm and fortify our union in that ceaseless and unwearying effort which must be made if the captive peoples are to be set free. A year ago His Majesty's government was left alone to face the storm, and to many of our friends and enemies alike it may have seemed our days, too, were numbered, and that Britain and its institutions would sink for ever beneath the verge.

But I may with some pride remind Your Excellencies that even in that dark hour when our army was disorganized and almost weaponless, when scarcely a gun or tank remained in Britain, when almost all our stores and ammunition had been lost in France, never for one moment did the British people dream of making peace with the conqueror and never for a moment did they despair of the common cause.

On the contrary, we proclaimed at that very time to all men, not only to ourselves, our determination not to make peace until every one of the ravaged and enslaved countries was liberated and until Nazi domination was broken and destroyed.

STOOD AWFUL TEST

See how far we have travelled since those breathless days of June a year ago. Our solid stubborn strength has stood an awful test. We are masters of our own air and now reach out in ever-growing retribution upon the enemy. The Royal Navy holds the seas. The Italian fleet cowers, diminished, in harbor. The German navy is largely crippled or sunk.

Murderous raids upon our ports, cities and factories have been powerless to quench the spirit of the British nation, to stop our national life, or check the immense expansion of our war industry. Food and arms from across the oceans are coming safely in. Full provision to replace all sunken tonnage is being made here and still more by our friends in the United States. We are becoming an armed community.

Our land forces are being perfected in equipment and training. Hitler may turn and trample this way and that through tortured Europe. He may spread his course far and wide and carry his curse with him. He may break into Africa or into Asia. But it is here, in this island fortress, that he will have to reckon in the end.

We shall strive to resist by land and sea. We shall be on his track wherever he goes. Our air power will continue to teach the German homeland that war is not all loot and triumph. We shall aid and stir the people of every conquered country to resistance and revolt.

We shall break up and derange every effort which Hitler makes to systematize and consolidate his subjugations. He will find no peace, no rest, no halting place, no parley. And, if driven to desperate hazards, he attempts an invasion of the British Isles, as well he may, we shall not flinch from the supreme trial. With the help of God, on which we must all feel daily conscious, we shall continue steadfast in faith and duty till our task is done.

This then, my lords and gentlemen, is the message which we send forth today to all states and nations, bound or free, to all the men in all the lands who care for freedom's cause. To our Allies and well wishers in Europe, to our American friends and helpers drawing ever closer in their might across the ocean, this is the message—lift up your hearts. All will come right. Out of the depths of sorrow and sacrifice will be born again the glory of mankind.

Big Amount To Be Repaid By CBC Manager

By B. T. RICHARDSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 12—Adjustments have been made in connection with expenses drawn by W. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, it was learned today. While official circles are close-lipped on the nature of the adjustment, it is understood that Murray has been called upon to repay a considerable amount of money.

Exception was taken in February by the auditor general, Watson Sellar, to the action of the board of governors in granting Mr. Murray per diem allowancer when absent from base of operations. At $20 a day, Mr. Murray drew $5,697 under this heading in 1940, in addition to an expense allowance of $4,800 and salary of $13,000. All that officials would say about the matter is that it has been adjusted. Augustin Frignon, assistant general manager, was recently placed in complete control of C.B.C. financial matters.

Expectations are widely held that a debate on the C.B.C. will arise before the present session adjourns. The C.B.C. is expected to be transferred to the department of national war services or a new department of information if it is established in impending cabinet changes. The radio corporation at present is under Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply.

suffering. He was assisted back to bed and in a few moments was dead.

Dr. Rutherford had been active until taken ill last Saturday. A week ago Wednesday he had played a game of golf with His Honor Lt. Gov. J. C. Bowen, and appeared to be in good health.

His last public appearance was at the University of Alberta convocation on May 19.

Funeral services for Dr. Rutherford will be conducted Friday from the Strathcona Baptist church at 2:30 p.m. Rev. S. M. Hirtle will officiate, and interment will be made in the family plot in the Mount Pleasant cemetery. Howard and McBride, funeral directors, have charge of arrangements.

His passing removes a distinguished resident, an outstanding barrister and a zealous, consistent worker for the betterment of the province as a whole. In his long residence here, he had seen many changes wrought and had seen fruit borne by some of the major projects which he himself instituted.

MOULDED CAREER

Alexander Cameron Rutherford was born Feb. 2, 1857, at Osgoode, Carleton County, Ont., the son of James Rutherford and Elizabeth Cameron. In the environment typical of the long-settled, cultured section of Ontario in which he lived, he early felt parental and associated influences which moulded his later career.

He attended high school at Metcalfe, Ont., and later attended Woodstock Collegiate Institute, Ottawa Normal school and McGill university, Montreal.

He read law with the firm of Scott, McTavish and McCracken in Ottawa, and with the Ottawa firm of O'Connor and Hogg. In 1885 he was called to the Ontario bar and he practiced his profession in that province.

In 1895 he came west and established himself in practice. He became in that year, a member of the firm of Hodgins, Kidd and Rutherford and from that time onward, his standing in the legal profession and his influence on the life of the community as a whole expanded.

In 1910 his outstanding contribution to the legal profession was recognized by his appointment as a King's Counsel.

From the time of his arrival here, he plunged into general community welfare work. Succeeding years contain a record of steady contribution to uplift and development of the community.

UNIVERSITY CHANCELLOR

Since 1899 he had been secretary-treasurer and solicitor of the South Edmonton School district. Since 1927 he had been Chancellor of the University of Alberta.

In 1906 he was appointed a member of the Ottawa Inter-Provincial Conference and the next year saw him appointed vice-president of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance. In the same year he was named a delegate to the Imperial Conference on Education at London, Eng.

In 1909 he was named as a member of the Royal Conservation Commission. From 1902 to 1905 he sat in the North West Territories legislature as a member for Strathcona. During this period, he occupied the post of deputy speaker.

His contribution to the welfare of the Liberal party in this province was recongized in 1905 when he was elected president of the Alberta Liberal Association.

On the formation of the province in 1905, it was natural that he should be called upon to enter a wider sphere of public service. In that year, Alberta was created a province and he ran in the general election—the first in Alberta's history and he was elected as a member for Strathcona.

The first government of Alberta was formed soon after this election and on Sept. 2, 1905 he was premier, provincial treasurer and minister of education. He occupied the post of premier until May 26, 1910, when he resigned. He had been re-elected to the legislature in the general election of 1909.

He never re-entered active politics, but continued his practice of law as a leading member of the bar and always stood ready to assist in any community uplift work.

During his term as premier of the province, many of the most outstanding social service, agricultural welfare and other acts were placed on the statute books.

HONORARY COLONEL

During the Great War, his services were recognized in his appointment of honorary colonel of the 194th Battalion.

He was the president of the Alberta Historical Association and the McGill Alumni Association of Northern Alberta. He was a member of the Edmonton Authors' Association.

In 1935 he was awarded the Jubilee Medal, struck in honor of the silver jubilee of the late King George V.

His portrait, painted by the late Victor A. Long, hangs in the corridors of the legislative buildings.

He was vice-president of the Edmonton Mortgage Corporation.

In religion, he was a Baptist. His main recreation was golfing, of which he was fond and at which he was skilled. He was a Freemason (P.M.). He was a member of the Mayfair Golf and Country Club.

For many years he was head of the prominent Edmonton legal firm of Rutherford, Rutherford and McCuaig. The firm of which he was head at the time of his death was Rutherford, Rutherford and Newton, the other members of the firm being his son Cecil Rutherford, K.C., and Gordon Newton.

On Dec. 11, 1889, he was married to Miss Mattie Birkett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Birkett at Ottawa.

Mrs. Rutherford pre-deceased him last year. He is survived by one son, Cecil, and one daughter, Hazel, now Mrs. S. H. McCuaig, both of this city; one brother, James Rutherford, of Blenheim, Ont., and one sister, Miss Jessie Rutherford of Ormond, Ont.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

VICTORIA, June 12.—(CP)—Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the University of Alberta, who is holidaying here with Mrs. Kerr, expressed keen regret upon hearing of the death of Dr. A. C. Rutherford, first premier of Alberta.

"Dr. Rutherford and I were close friends for more than a quarter of a century. He had a wide acquaintance and a great capacity for friendship, and was an outstanding public citizen in Alberta," Dr. Kerr be heard from, would pay tribute said. "Many people, if they could to his kind heart and wise advice."

GRIEF EXPRESSED AT DEATH OF RUTHERFORD

News of the death of Dr. Rutherford brought expressions of grief and sorrow from many quarters. Leading residents in all walks of life expressed sympathy with members of the family and regret that an outstanding figure in Alberta public life had been removed.

Premier William Aberhart, informed of Dr. Rutherford's death, said:

"In the death of Dr. Rutherford, I feel that Alberta has suffered the loss of a man who, by his contribution to the upbuilding of the province in its formative years and by his activities in many lines of community welfare, brought about lasting benefits to future progress.

HIGH IDEALS

"Dr. Rutherford was a man of high ideals, whose puplic career was admirable and who always maintained a lofty purpose in his every line of endeavor. In his legal practice he carried on the finest traditions of the bar. As chancellor of the University of Alberta, he always kept before him the welfare of the institution and the purpose for which it was founded.

"His love of literature, flowers and all things beautiful, endeared him to many and kept him with a youthful viewpoint ever present.

"He will be missed and he will be remembered."

1,334 Military Planes Made In U.S. During May

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—The office of production management announced today that military aircraft manufacturers delivered 1,334 airplanes during May.

It did not disclose the types of planes nor how many went to the United States army and navy and how many to Great Britain.

Comparable final figures for April showed 1,389 deliveries, the O.P.M. said, although its original announcement last month had shown 1,427 deliveries. Officials did not say why the final check showed such a reduction in the April totals.

The decline for May was attributed to the Memorial Day holiday week-end by some officials.

Aid Advocates Disappointed In F.D.R.'s Report

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP) — Aid-to-Britain advocates expressed surprise and disappointment today over President Roosevelt's report that only $75,202,425 of lease-lend equipment had been transferred in the period between March 11, when the program started, and May 31.

Some opponents of administration foreign policy expressed gratification. Senator Bennett Champ Clark (Dem.-Indiana) professed pleasure that so little of the $7,000,000,000 voted for lease-lend supplies "has been used to buy an interest in a lost cause."

FOUND "DISTRESSING"

To Senator Burton Wheeler yesterday's report demonstrated there was no need for convoys, although "there has been a lot of howling for them."

"We have sent over only $75,000,000 worth of lease-lend goods," the Montana Democrat added, "and there is no claim by the President that any of that has been sunk."

Senator Tom Connally (Dem.-Texas), a sponsor of the British aid legislation, found it "distressing" that more equipment had not been transferred and Senator Harry Byrd (Dem.-Virginia) said the amount is "greatly disappointing."

"This shows the need for a coordinator of defence to make the program effective," Byrd told reporters. "We ought to cut the red tape, stop strikes and get to work helping England and defend ourselves."

Senator Claude Pepper (Dem., Florida), said $75,000,000 worth of war materials "won't stop Hitler and it won't keep us out of war."

"If the volume can't be tremendously increased within a very short time," he said, "our chances of keeping Hitler and the war in Europe are mighty slim and Britain's chances are desperate."

From Senator Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio), who opposed the original aid-to-Britain legislation, came a statement that "we should have shipped five times as much."

Senator Edwin Johnson (Dem., Colorado), remarked the report was "very disappointing, but Hitler had better be looking at his hole card three months from now." Expressing surprise at the report, Senator Alva Adams (Dem., Colorado), said he had assumed that between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 had been spent to aid Britain.

Interest Active In Wheat Trading

WINNIPEG, June 12.—(CP)—Active interest in the top grades of cash wheat and good sales of Canadian wheat abroad featured operations on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Despite this good business, however, July wheat refused to budge from its minimum price of 77½ cents a bushel.

Reich Industry Centres Given Heavy Bombing

LONDON, June 12. — (CP) — Royal Air Force bombers attacked German shipping in the English Channel this afternoon and left one ship of about 1,400 tons sinking from direct hits, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

By W. R. DOWNS

LONDON, June 12.—(BUP)—The air ministry said today that British long-range bombing planes, flying over Germany under the almost-full moon, bombed the vital Ruhr-Rhine industrial area of Germany for hours last night and left great fires in their wake.

Duisberg and Duesseldorf were the principal targets, but the British planes, in unusual force, attacked other objectives in the area and also bombed docks at Rotterdam and Boulogne.

HIT INVASION COAST

Earlier in the night as the moon came out from clouds which shrouded the French coast, big formations of bombing planes heavily attacked the French invasion coast.

They hurled bombs on Calais, Boulogne and the Cap Griz Nez area of the invasion coast, blasting at shipping, docks and the long range artillery batteries which the Germans use to bombard the Kentish coast.

The magnitude of the night's raids was indicated by the air ministry statement that eight bombing planes failed to return.

It was the 38th raid on Duisberg and the 30th on Duesseldorf. These towns had last been bombed June 2.

The strange recent lull in German air raids on Great Britain was emphasized both by the fact that the Germans had failed to take advantage of the June moon to make mass raids, and the fact that British planes were raiding in force. The moon reaches its full phase tonight.

The night's attacks by the British air force came after constant daylight action yesterday.

The Calais attack was so heavy that buildings 22 miles away, in the British Dover area, were shaken by bombs seen exploding along the French waterfront. The German ground defences sent up a heavy anti-aircraft barrage, but the attack continued.

Before dark last night British bombers had attacked the Dutch coast and had sunk a tanker in the Dover Straits with seven direct hits. One German seaplane was shot down and one British plane was lost.

GERMANY ADMITS INDUSTRIAL DAMAGE

BERLIN, June 12—(AP)—Damage to industries and railways at Cologne, Duisberg and Germany, in western and northern Germany, was acknowledged today by the German high command after a night of Royal Air Force raiding.

The communique claimed the damage, apart from "severe destruction" of apartment houses, was not great and credited night fighters and anti-aircraft batteries with shooting down 10 R.A.F. planes.

(The British air ministry said eight planes were missing.)

The German communique gave no figures on casualties, but said there were dead and wounded in the attacked places.

1,000 Dockworkers In Liverpool Are Under Suspension

LIVERPOOL, June 12—(CP)—One-thousand dockworkers were suspended today for what port superintendent H. O. Pugh called slacking and engaging in a dispute about overtime wages. Five hundred Manchester dockworkers also were suspended.

Pugh said a quicker turnabout of ships was mandatory. The workers had engaged in a slow down, he said.

Vice - President Of U.S. Speaker

NEW YORK, June 12—(CP)—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace of the United States will be one of the speakers at a dinner here sponsored by a group of Canadians honoring Prime Minister Mackenzie King, June 17, it was disclosed Wednesday by Douglas Cole, Canadian trade commissioner, who also named the Canadian organizations sponsoring the dinner.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If your reducing diet were supervised by a dietitian in a weight clinic, she would put more stress in the foods to be included in your diet than on the ones to be left out. You'd eat the foods listed for you and not quibble about it.

She would probably specify a minimum of 70 grams of protein—280 calories—to take care of the wear and tear. You would have an average serving of meat or fish weighing one-third pound and furnishing approximately 25 grams of protein; one egg, 6 grams of protein; two glasses of skim milk, 14 grams of protein; one-half cup of cottage cheese, or one section of Canadian cheese, either of which would supply 20 grams of protein. These, together with the smaller amounts of protein furnished in other foods, would make up your requirement.

You might like to have more meat. Some of the latest reducing menus specify one-half pound of meat daily. An egg and two glasses of skim milk should also be included in the day's menus.

In supervised reducing, there would be no fooling about your vegetables and fresh fruits while reducing as at any other time. To make up for the Vitamin A skimmed off the milk along with the cream, you should have one green, leafy or one yellow vegetable every day. In addition, you should have a salad green, such as escarole, watercress, green peppers, and two fresh fruits, one a citrus—either orange or grapefruit—or tomato juice.

You would be told to cut fats with a vengeance for they are highest in calories. Instead of frying foods and saturating them with fat, you would make a practice of baking, broiling or boiling —meats particularly. And you would not be guilty of eating any of the fat part of the meat. This taboo extends to mayonnaise, French dressing, cream, whipped cream, pastries, or any other food containing a high percentage of fat.

There are hundreds of reducing diets, good and bad, but the perfect diet includes the following list of protective foods every day:

Basic Balanced Menu—	Calories
Orange juice, ½ glass (3½ oz.)	55
Egg, 1, boiled or poached	75
Whole wheat bread or Vitamin B-enriched bread, 3 thin slices	150
Butter, 2 pats, each ¼" thick	100
Lean meat, fish or fowl, 6 oz. (with every particle of fat trimmed off) cooked by broiling, boiling or baking	300
Cooked vegetables, 2; 1 a green leafy one	100
Green vegetable salad—watercress, escarole or lettuce	25
A second fruit	50

German Aircraft Drop Leaflets In Raid On Britain

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—Nazi planes dropped leaflets as well as bombs over England during the night. One of the enemy bombers was shot down in flames.

One observer said thousands of the propaganda leaflets fell on one part of eastern England "like a snowstorm."

The press association said the leaflets "dealt with the Battle of the Atlantic, quoting facts given by President Roosevelt and figures on the British tonnage sunk."

The press association added that the propaganda sheets claimed Britain's avenue of supply had been closed and that the British Isles faced starvation.

The bombs inflicted substantial damage and some casualties in a number of places, the air ministry said. The Nazis were reported over London, the Midlands, the northwest and the north of England, in the heaviest attacks of recent weeks.

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN IN ENGLAND, June 12.—(CP)—Big bombs which fell in a working class section during Nazi air raids last night were believed to have caused casualties in homes wrecked over a large area.

She wants to hold a mortgage on the British fleet in case Britain loses it."

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

THESE days there is much talk from fistiana about the decline and impending fall of Joe Louis. Much of this chatter comes from gents who seem to be in a position to know something about the score. They point to the fact that Louis is working harder for his bout with Billy Conn next week than he has worked for any fight in recent years. From this they argue that the champ feels he is slipping and knows that he has a dangerous opponent in Little Billy.

Such reasoning does not impress me much. Buddy Baer, possessor of the latest and most authoritative data on the alleged decline of the champion, found no evidence of the Bomber slipping. "If he is slipping, he's slipping mighty slow," Buddy declared the other day.

I'd like to think that Conn has a chance for the heavyweight crown, but it just doesn't seem to be in the cards for him.

To begin with, can you picture 180-pound Billy knocking out 202-pound Joe? Apparently even Conn himself cannot quite imagine that for he has never so much as hinted that he might win by a kayoe. Billy figures he can wear Louis out and beat him on points.

Now Louis is a pretty fair boxer himself and Conn would have to outpoint Joe by a sensational margin before any set of judges would think of taking the title away from the Brown Bomber. The heavyweight championship isn't tossed around for pretty boxing.

This, however, is the angle that may be the cause of Louis astounding everyone by insisting on hard training. Joe probably figures that Conn is going after a point victory—or at least enough points so that he can raise some sort of title claims. There is only one way to prevent this. Joe will have to win by a knockout—and he knows it is going to be harder to floor Conn for the count than the bigger and slower guys he has been bopping off lately.

Actually Conn's record is far from impressive. The light heavyweight division is notoriously weak in talent and punching power and the heavies that Conn has beaten are not first-raters.

Louis has been in almost continuous training since December and may be getting a bit stale. That is the best hope that Conn has for making a good showing.

However, the guy who does seem to have a chance of stopping Louis is Lou Nova. This battler is smart; he can take it and he has shown he has the power to bowl Louis over and keep on bowling him over. When these two tangle in the early fall, the affair should be a battle worth quite a hike to see.

Juniors, Fish and Feller

TODAY officials of the Edmonton Junior Baseball League are putting on a sale of a limited number of season tickets—just enough to cover the fixed operating expenses for the season so that the schedule can be played out without any hitch. Fans may get them at Harry Singer's Bond Haberdashers or the Dittrich Men's Shop.

When it comes to big fish, probably the biggest fresh water fish on the continent is in Upper Red Lake in Minnesota. What is more, this walloper has already been measured, weighed and tagged by the Minnesota department of conservation. He is a rock sturgeon weighing 143 pounds, six feet long and estimated to be 80 years old.

Bob Feller made out his army draft questionnaire the other day and indicated that he was ready to enter the army whenever he was called—"tomorrow if they need me". He said he had no particular preference for any branch of the service, but figured his duty was to serve his country. "I'd enlist voluntarily the minute the U. S. declared war," Feller said.

While Feller is ready, there are indications that the management of Cleveland Indians are a bit jittery about losing their $45,000 a year pitching ace. Peckinpaugh said that if Feller was called in August, it might not be too much out of line to ask for a month's deferment.

Favorites Win Six Of Seven Races On Whittier Park Card

ST. BONIFACE, June 12.—(CP)—Six favorites, led by Chan Chan, who captured the Stock Yards purse, galloped to victory on Whittier Park's muddy track Wednesday while longshot players scurried for cover during the steady rain-storm.

Chan Chan, son of Fair Ball-Southern Rose and owned by R. B. Covington of Resburg, Ida., took the five-horse fifth event over a one mile and five-sixteenths route by a three-length margin over Payne. Sweet Pal was third two and a half lengths back of Payne.

Jockey A. Sylvester steered Bob's First to a popular win in the opening race, a five and a half furlong sprint, while Thatcher, owned by J. D. Ferguson of Saskatoon, romped home in the third to pay $13.90 for a straight $2 bet. The Bob's First-Thatcher daily double was worth $138.00 to the 42 ticket holders.

Other favorites to score were the Whittier Park Stock Farm's Battleford in the second, A. G. Tarn's Maderis from Chicago in the fourth, Ascot Jane from the Double "T" Stable, Vancouver, in the sixth and Wise Baby in the seventh.

The Vancouver Stable lost Ascot Jane to J. J. Rose of Vancouver who claimed the four-year-old filly for $800.

Four hundred and seventy persons cashed in on the Quinella in the seventh race, having paired Wise Baby Joe for a payoff worth $14.35, smallest Quinella of the 10-day-old meet.

Snappy fielding by Angelina Markowski for the winners and by Margot Smith and Jean Lane for the losers was an added feature.

Buffaloes Trim Pats 9-3 To Gain Four Wins In Row

Big Orange Buffaloes turned back the Army and Navy Pats for the fourth straight time in the Senior Girls' Softball League on Wednesday night at Kingsway Park, piling up a 9-3 score, the result of 18 hits plus some assistance from errors.

Edna Harrison pitching for the Buffs gave up nine hits, but they were fairly well scattered and after the first inning settled down and made it tough for the Pats. She also made three hits in four trips to the plate.

Beryl Westbrook chucked for 8 1-3 innings for the Pats and was then relieved by Jean Ward.

The Buffs started right in the first frame to win the game, collecting a quartet of runs on four hits and an error. Mabel Geddes' three-bagger with two on was big help.

Pats came back with one when Winnie Gallen walked and Jerry Martin hit for two bases, but that was near as they ever came to winning the game, for the Buffaloes always maintained a safe lead.

Each team had a pair who were hitting three for four. Vickie Wynnyk and Edna Harrison for the Buffs and Bubbles Ferrier and Jerry Martin also contributed a trio of safe bingles for the Pats. Minnie Wilson had three for five.

It Takes More Than Natural Swing To Lead

It takes more than a good, natural swing to make a top hitter in the major leagues. Joe DiMaggio, above, is credited with having one of the most natural and easy swings in the big time, yet he worked for years as a kid in San Francisco to smooth out his style so that he brought the bat squarely into the ball with his maximum power behind it. Joe Cronin maintains that any person with fair eyes, no physical defects and no fear of a pitch, can be made into a good hitter by the right coaching and plenty of drilling.

Natural Swing Gives Batter An Edge But It Takes Hard Work For Greatness

By HARRY GRAYSON

CLEVELAND, June 12.—(NEA)—Hitting comes easier to the natural swinger, but it is application that makes a batter great. Manufactured hitters haven't done badly. Hank Greenberg and Joe Cronin are striking examples.

Cronin argues that anyone who has good eyes and is strong should be a fair sort of a hitter provided he is unafraid and has no physical handicap such as being muscle bound.

Practice makes perfect in batting as in everything else.

Cronin contends that most so-called natural swings are developed.

The manager of the Red Sox saw Joe DiMaggio as a kid in San Francisco, knows how the free swinger of the Yankees worked on his method of blasting.

Ted Williams has an exceptionally fine pair of wrists, which are the source of the thin one's amazing power, but the San Diego lad toiled long and hard to learn how to handle a bat like an accomplished golfer handles a club.

In the Double A's and when he first reported to the Bostons, Williams pried famous swatsmiths with questions. On his first trip to Detroit, he sought out Harry Heilmann . . . chatted with that renowned slugger for hours.

HEILMANN CHANGED TO COBB'S STYLE

REMARKABLE hitters have broken down their swings entirely and rebuilt with tremendous success.

Heilmann talked batting with Ty er of long base hits in the Pacific Coast League, changed his style entirely when he came in contact with Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

Heilman talked batting with Ty Cobb with the result that he crowded and bent over the plate as did the Georgia Peach.

Cobb took advantage of everything at the plate. He was a line drive hitter, but frequently drove balls into the dirt with the idea of beating out infield hits.

Rogers Hornsby stood as far away from the dish and as far back in the batter's box as he could get. The Rajah's theory was to step into the pitch. He really could step in and whack that low outside curve.

Babe Ruth became the daddy of home run smackers by copying Joe Jackson's pigeon-toed stance . . . the toe of the right foot pointing toward the catcher and fitted into the left instep.

One of the bigger advantages of Jackson and Ruth was their total lack of fear.

I recall the original Dutch Leonard thrice hitting Jackson in the ribs with pitched balls in one game.

"Leonard was a little wild today," said Jackson after the game. The Dutchman could thread a needle with the ball, but it never occurred to Shoeless Joe that the southpaw might have been trying to loosen him up, nor was he particularly concerned about it. Shoeless Joe thought of only one thing—pickling the pill.

JOHNNY MIZE is a terrific hitter. National League pitchers tell you he never offers at a bad ball, which is not the least reason why the Caridnal luminary is so formidable.

Pete Reiser of the Brooklyns has a beautiful swing, but wouldn't be where he is if he didn't keep his mind on his work.

The swing's the thing, but only when it brings the bat into the ball. Looking at Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, you wonder how he ever gets a hit. The Illinois product twists himself up like a pretzel, wraps his bat around his neck, yet manages to get the bat around to meet the ball.

An injury which made it impossible for him to grip the bat properly once yanked Frank Frisch out of a slump and helped the Cardinals to a pennant. The Fordham Flash had to concentrate on getting the good part of the bat in front of the ball and base hits rained all over the place.

The better hitters are those who study the pitchers closely.

Form is pleasing to the eye, but there is no set way to hit. The trick is to come into the ball.

Winnipeg Pair Wins Bridge Tilt

NEW YORK, June 12.—(CP)—Robert P. Willson and George Gooden, both of San Francisco, and Margery Foote and Charles C. Miller, Jr., both of Phoenix, Ariz., were International and United States winners of the 10th Annual World Bridge Olympic held April 17.

Geoffrey Mott-Smith, games manager, announced results Wednesday of the mail tournament in which the same 16 bridge hands were played simultaneously by 4,000 contestants in the United States and six foreign countries.

The Canadian winners were Abb and A. R. Ousseau, both of Winnipeg, and J. G. Leusque and H. A. Harding, of St. Pacome, Que.

Rain Halts Play In Western Open

CINCINNATI, June 12.—(AP)—Sixteen survivors in the 12th Annual Women's Western Golf championship reversed procedure Wednesday and had showers—cold ones—on the course, instead of warm ones in the locker room.

Rain flooded the fairways, traps and greens, drenching the competitors and making the Cincinnati Country Club layout unplayable.

For the first time in the fixture's history, match play was halted and the program changed to permit a double-header for today. All matches will be resumed where the girls left off today.

Henrich Likely To Play First For New York Yanks

By PAUL SCHEFFELS

NEW YORK, June 12.—(UP)—Notes from major League press-boxes: Look for Manager Joe McCarthy's oft-considered plan to shift Outfielder Tommy Henrich to first base for the New York Yankees to be consummated before the major league trading deadline next Sunday unless a deal for an outfielder from another club cannot be arranged.

Henrich currently is on a homer rampage with six four-baggers in 11 days. Throughout 1940 he hit only 10 homers.

One of the closest resemblances in baseball is that of Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Mace Brown to Cincinnati pitcher Elmer Riddle. Brown looks more like Elmer than does

EXCLUSIVE

WHILE TERRY WEEPS

Harry Gumbert, former New York Giants' pitcher, has made 11 hits in 21 trips to the plate as a St. Louis Cardinal besides winning five games. He's currently sporting a .394 average.

The army will be able to stage an all-star baseball game to rival the major league affair at Detroit this year at the rate big league stars are receiving questionnaires. Picther Hugh Mulcahy nd oatufielder Hank Greenberg are already wearing khaki and pitchers Johnny Rigney, Micky Harris, Bobby Feller and Roy Bruner; outfielders Joe Marty and Dom Dimaggio, and infielders Cecil Travis, Buddy Lewis and Benny McCoy are scheduled for call before the end of the season. The army is even ready to point a bugle at national league umpire Ol Barlick who will be the first arbiter called.

Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, tells this one about Coach Muddy Ruel, whom he credits most with developing his successful pitching staff. "Ruel is just about the smartest fellow with pitchers I've ever seen. You ought to hear him go over games with those guys, whether they've won or lost. The other day one of the boys pitched a three-hitter but when Ruel got through telling him what he did wrong, the fellow said, 'I guess I was lucky.'"

The effectiveness achieved by the Boston Red Sox pitchers this year, might go down as the Sox' most important improvement for 1941 except for the astounding prowess of outfielder Ted Williams. This long lanky youngster, now in his third year in the majors, is hitting .416 and is so far ahead of his nearest rival (Jeff Heath, Cleveland, .360) that he is making the American league batting race a runaway. In 43 games and 149 trips to the plate, he's made 62 hits and is second in runs scored with 46.

There is a school of managers that believes a pilot can operate more effectively from the dugout but their credo has found little support in the national league where Frankie Frisch, Bill Terry, Bill McKechnie, Doc Prothro, Jimmy Wilson, Casey Stengel and Billy Southworth all turn in coaching tricks on the third base line.

Mickey McBain Knows Athletics As Well As Grain

There's a fellow from out Cremona way who has plenty of go. His name is Mickey McBain, and he was one of the 104 Alberta farm youths attending the 23rd annual University Week here.

Entering for the first time in a big field day Mickey walked away with the Jack Marshall cup for the best boy's performance in the meet staged Wednesday afternoon at the University grid.

Not only does Mickey excel in things athletic, but he topped off first prize in the grain judging competition as well. He's just 20 years old, finished high school and is working on his dad's farm at Cremona, which is about 170 miles southwest of Edmonton.

At the field day Wednesday the South again triumphed over the North, getting 94 points to the North's 41. All farm youths attending the week are eligible to take part in the meet, and are divided into two groups according to their home, with Red Deer as the dividing line.

Mary Bishop, of Conrich, won the Jessie Montgomery cup for high total among the girls competing at the field day.

Triple Play With Full Bases Saves Bacon For Stampeders

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

PONOKA, June 12.—Stampeders' ability to hit when there were runners on bases and the Arrows' lack of ability in this respect gave Ponoka a 7-5 victory last night over the Edmonton club in a Central Alberta Baseball League game here before the biggest crowd of the season.

No less than 12 Arrows died on bases when their mates were unable to drive them in. Only three Stampeders were left on bases.

The game produced a number of highlights. Jimmy Rattlesnake was given credit as the winning pitcher, although the Arrows got eight hits off him in six innings and the Stampeders were able to reach Lefty Belter for only seven hits in the full game. Charlie Lewis pitched the last three frames for Ponoka and held the Edmontonians hitless and scoreless.

TRIPLE SAVES STAMPS

However a brilliant triple play saved the game for the Stampeders in the ninth inning when Lewis filled the bases on three consecutive bases on balls. Harry Ornest came to bat for the Arrows at this stage with nobody out. Charlie still had trouble getting the range of the plate. The count went to three balls and two strikes. Ornest swung on the next pitch and lined a hard drive at Gribbling, Ponoka second baseman. All base runners had started. Gribbling caught the drive and whipped it to Parker at first to catch McGill off the sack. Parker then whirled and fired the ball to Chapman, Stamp shortstop, who tagged Shamper off second for the third out.

Ponoka scored three runs in the second, three in the fifth and one in the eighth—the latter a homer when Gribbling smashed a terrific drive over the right field fence.

FIELDING BAD

Stampeders turned in their worst fielding performance of the season—no less than seven errors, while the Arrows booted only two fielding chances.

Shamper and McGill, in the middle of the batting order, produced the bulk of the Arrows' hitting power. Each got two hits out of three times at bat and each had a two-base wallop. Gribbling was the only Stampeder to equal this hitting.

Craig Wood Should Make Money From Golf Crown

FT. WORTH, Tex.—It seems to be the consensus of the locker room Babsons that Craig Wood will collect more cabbage with his new National Open golf title than any proprietor of that property since the historic year of Johnny Farrell, away back in that other world of 1928.

Mr. Farrell was a natural. So were the times. The combination was like the comforting line from the lullaby in Porgy and Bess, "Your pappy's rich and your mammy's good looking." The very good looking young Mr. Farrell and the very rich old world kissed like a pair of billiard balls in the National Open of 1928, and when they came loose, about $50,000 was stuck to Mr. Farrell.

It hasn't happened since.

Lawson Little is popularly believed to have milked only about $15,000 out of his year's fling with the bauble. Several pros in the recent running wouldn't have been able to do any better in the year of grace or grief which is immediately in front of us. They are as void of personality as a highway dummy and as colorless as Texas liquid corn.

But golf's new golden boy comes up with more angles than a geometric lesson. To begin with, there's sympathy. Everybody's been for him. He's tried so long and so hard and has had so many tough breaks. For 20 years, over all, and 15 of topflight competition, Craig Wood has been right at the top, but never over it.

Perpetual runner-up, top drawer golf's most consistent bride's maid, the pre-ordained No. 2 before the shooting ever started, he had tied for and lost every major title a professional is eligible for in this country, and even in England. The British Open, the American P.G.A., the United States Open and the Augusta Masters' had all slipped away from him in play-offs, after ties. This year's Masters was the lone exception and it came after all the rest.

LAWSON LITTLE'S TEARS

SO the entire golfing fraternity, the press and even every competitor who didn't have a chance himself were all pulling for him. The scene on the 18th green when the retiring champion, Lawson Little, congratulated him, was something the attending throng can file in its memories. Lawson didn't just walk out and shake his hand. He charged through that crowd at the green's rim like a west coast fullback and he hugged the New Yorker like a grizzly, bad back and all. And that wasn't perspiration that suddenly trickled in runnels down the bronzed face of Little. It was tears, the stuff that comes from the eyes—and the heart.

People will probably want to see the man who successfully lived out the old exhortation, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." There's that angle. Another is that Wood automatically becomes the personal champion of the middle-aged gentleman.

The oldest American ever to win the title—he's coming on 40—Wood is going to cause many a burgher who's begun to get a little full around the vest to climb back up in the attic and start clawing around for those clubs he filed up there five years ago. Yes, sir. If a man 40 years old can go out and trim the pants off the best in the business, it's not just a game for lithe young whippersnappers who started perfecting a swing in their off-hours as caddies.

WHEN WOOD WASN'T COPY

THUS to personality and popularity is added the possibility of an entirely new audience. Wood's win will bring men back to the game. His story is richer than any in years. He may have been no "copy," or negative copy, going into the recent cow-town carnival, but he came out layered with it. As a matter of fact, the distinguished editor of a national magazine has probably had an extra seat sewed upon his pants so he can kick himself harder all this week. Too far back now to do anything about it, he turned down a well written 16,000 word thesis about the career of Wood. The title of it was, prophetically enough, "I'll Win the Open."

Bought at the time, that piece would have been running in the current issue. But that's the way it's always been with Wood. Things are different now. In the matter of money, he'll make possibly $30,000.

He won $1,000 as top money from the tournament. He got another thousand and expenses for one radio appearance in New York. He had at least a half dozen requests to play in various tournaments at $500 apiece, and, one supposes a shot at the prize money in such places as well. He will receive a handsome bonus from the manufacturer whose goods he used in the match.

There'll be endorsements and articles. There are some extra possibilities in his case, for it just chances that he's wholesome, boyish and photogenic, if not really and truly handsome. His face will look good on billboards. There are a lot of worse looking gents in the movies. He has a clear, masculine voice and all the social graces.

He'll really make a lot of money, which is the normal goal of all men—and then hand most of it on to the government, which is par in another sort of contest in these times.

Hoyle, Docherty Continue Advance Tennis Doubles

Eleven more draws were completed in the Civil Service Tennis Club tournament on Wednesday night and in five cases three sets were required to determine the winner.

The match between Hoyle and Docherty against Blythe and Dolgoy in the men's open doubles attracted the biggest gallery for the evening's play.

Blythe and Dolgoy won the first set, but Hoyle and Docherty took a 6-4 decision in the second and then went on to win the match.

Caddel and Mighall had to go three sets before disposing of Taylor and Nelson in the mixed doubles and Bannerman and Olding also dropped their first set to Ozee and E. Seaman and then had to win two straight.

In the ladies' open doubles Miller and Gordon were carried to three sets before they won against McMahon and Calvert and Murphy and Meyers lost their first set with Stewart and Boylan, but finally took the odd winning out 9-7.

A match on today's 5:45 p.m. draw which no doubt will be watched is the one between Bessie McAvoy and Ruth Murphy. The latter is a new member of the club from Winnipeg and is expected to make a good showing against the city singles title holder.

Baseball's Oldest Rookie To Start All Over Again

DALLAS, June 12.—(AP)—Baseball's oldest rookie will trudge to the mound here June 25 and roll back the years for Dallas of the Texas Baseball League. James Patrick (Snipe) Conley is coming home to grab again at the glory he knew in the 20's.

President George Schepps of the Dallas club announced Wednesday he had signed Conley and believed he could win in the Texas League.

At 49 he will be baseball's oldest rookie. Because under Texas League rules, which classify a rookie as one who has not played in a loop of A-1 classification or higher within two years, Conley will just be starting. Under league rules he can return and continue to throw his spitter.

Conley started in professional baseball in 1912. The husky right-hander has a perfect major league record with two victories and no defeats with Cincinnati in 1918. He was with Dallas from 1916 to 1927. He holds the Texas League record for consecutive victories—19, one of them a no-hit, no-run performance.

Tennis Experts Help War Relief

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 12.—(AP)—Don Budge defeated the veteran Bill Tilden, 11-9, 6-3, Wednesday before 4,000 at the British war relief professional tennis exhibition at Longwood.

Alice Marble opened the program by defeating Mary Hardwick of England 6-1, 6-3. Miss Marble and Vinnie Richards defeated Miss Hardwick and Fred Perry, the current professional champion, 6-2, 6-4, and in the men's doubles match, Tilden and Lester Stoefen came from behind to beat Perry and Budge, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

The tournament netted $6,500 for the relief fund.

Buddy Lewis Loses Appeal

CHARLOTTE, N.C., June 12—(AP)—A district selective service appeal board ruled Wednesday that Buddy Lewis, 24-year-old third baseman of Washington Senators, must report for army duty Aug. 11.

Lewis, a resident of nearby Gaston County, asked his local board to exempt him on the grounds that he was the sole support of his mother. His request was refused and Lewis appealed.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—(AP)—Hal Trosky's three-run homer paced Cleveland Indians to their sixth straight victory Wednesday—a 6-4 verdict over Washington Senators—but the conquest may cost several days' services of Roy Weatherly, a mainstay of Cleveland's batting attack.

The little centre fielder, a .302 hitter, was struck on the head by Ken Chase's first pitch in the fourth inning and knocked unconscious. Examination at hospital revealed no fracture, but he is expected to rest for a few days.

Weatherly's injury was credited in a major way for Cleveland's victory. Shaken by the accident, Chase threw Trosky a ball which the first baseman belted out of the park.

Joe's Sudden Yen For Work Brings Spat With Blackburn

By SID FEDER

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y., June 12—(AP)—The charter of the "Joe Louis Bum of the Month Club" has been burned up—and Joe personally applied the match.

So seriously is the Brown Bomber taking his fight with Billy Conn a week from Wednesday night at the New York Polo Grounds that he not only is working harder than ever before to get ready, but he has even wrangled with his long-time trainer-pal, Jack "Chappie" Blackburn, over just how much training he really needs.

The result is that for the first time since he was preparing for his first fight with Max Schmeling, at Lakewood, N.J., he and Chappie have had words. And the "hunch players" can't help but remember the last time they disagreed. Der Mox applied the zinger to Joe in 12 rounds.

GOLF WAS PROBLEM

On that occasion, the row was over Louis' golf. Joe would go out under a blazing hot sun and Blackburn would chase him over the entire 18 holes trying to pull him off so he wouldn't bake.

This time Blackburn wants "the champ" to take things a little easier, inasmuch as he has been in steady training since last December, when he opened the Bum of the Month Club for the business with Al McCoy in Boston. Joe feels he needs every minute of work he can put in between now and next Wednesday. He is confident of the outcome, but not confident enough to pick the round in which he expects to apply the crusher.

JOE HAS HIS WAY

As usual, Joe is having his way.

Blackburn had planned to keep Joe on the sidelines Monday, Wednesday and Friday of this week. He announced after Tuesday's work that Joe would not train yesterday.

"I am too," Joe broke in. And he did. He compromised somewhat by only boxing four rounds instead of six.

This is a different Louis than the fellow who toyed with the alleged challengers they've been feeding him once a month this year. Joe is vicious again. He realizes he's slowed down somewhat, "but I ain't so slow that I ain't faster than that Conn," he adds.

Westlock Sports Are Attended By Crowd Of 2,000

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WESTLOCK, Alta., June 12—More than 2,000 persons Monday attended Westlock's annual patriotic sports day, staged under ideal weather conditions to raise funds for the purchase of a mobile field kitchen for Canada's active army overseas.

Net proceeds for the day amounted to well over $2,600, officials said. At a dance in the evening 650 persons were in attendance. During the day, in addition to many sports events, fireworks and platform attractions were witnessed by the immense crowd. The Canadian Legion branch which had charge of a midway, reported all features "well patronized."

Horse racing, ball games and countless other attractions added to the gaiety of the day.

Conn Believes Champ Slipping

By GAYLE TALBOT

POMPTON LAKES, June 12—(AP)—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh is basing his belief that he will win the heavyweight championship from Joe Louis next Wednesday night largely on the conviction that the negro has lost "50 per cent" of his punch and no longer can hurt an opponent seriously with one lick.

Both Billy and his manager, Johnny Ray, are absolutely convinced that Louis has slipped badly in the last year and is ripe for the taking.

"Honest," swore Johnny, "I shut my eyes and was afraid to look every time Buddy Baer hit him the other night in Washington. I could just see us losing this shot at the championship."

Conn is in superb condition, almost at the peak. He makes no secret of the fact that he expects to win by a decision. He says nothing about knocking Louis out.

FEDERAL AIDE ADDRESSES CITY ROTARY CLUB

Ottawa Prepares For Post - War Rehabilitation Now

Committees Set Up To Arrange Adequate Peace - Time Program

All the experience of outside authorities as well as government experience is being brought to bear on the great problem of post-war rehabilitation. Walter S. Woods, of Ottawa, associate deputy minister of the federal department of pensions and national health, told the Rotary Club at a luncheon meeting in the Macdonald hotel, Thursday.

Indicating the mechanics which have been set up for the study of the problem, Mr. Woods stated that a special committee of the cabinet was appointed more than a year ago under chairmanship of Hon Ian Mackenzie, minister of pensions and national health, to study the question of demobilization and rehabilitation. Sub-committees were also named

MUCH ACCOMPLISHED

"Much has already been accomplished through the medium of these committees and much has already been translated into actual legislation," he said. "Gradually there is beginning to emerge and unfold a scientific rehabilitation plan.

More than a billion dollars has already been expended on pensions and rehabilitation of men of the First Great War, and the country's future policy might well cost as much, Mr. Woods stated. It is, therefore, not something that can be snapped at after a brief consideration, but which requires enormous study and examination. We must acknowledge we were unprepared for the war, but there will be no excuse for being unprepared for peace."

Mr Woods said that one of the first steps in the establishment of the rehabilitation facilities is the setting up within the pensions' department of a welfare division with representatives at every large centre. The officers will give vocational guidance and counsel to the individual veteran, endeavor through the medium of business men to develop preferential demand for ex-service labor, and represent the interests of ex-servicemen generally in employment offices.

SYMPATHETIC RECEPTION

He urged the club members to give a sympathetic reception to the welfare officer who will be appointed in Edmonton shortly. "If you do this, you, too, will be making a direct and concrete contribution towards this great problem of rehabilitation," he told the members

Large Section Of Ukrainians Buy War Bonds

He did not wish to give the impression that the Ukrainian citizens of Alberta as a whole were not doing their part in the Victory Loan campaign, it was stated Thursday by H. M. E. Evans, northern Alberta chairman, following a report in The Bulletin that a "large number" of districts were not responding well. His statement, he said, referred to only one or two districts.

Mr. Evans' qualifying statement follows:

Mr. P. J. Lazarowich, of Edmonton, a member of the general Victory Loan committee for the province of Alberta, who is of Ukrainian descent, has called my attention to an item which appeared in yesterday's Bulletin which seemed to reflect on the Victory Loan efforts of a large number of Ukrainian districts.

BELOW EXPECTATION

As I recall the press interview, we were discussing the relative standing of the units which showed one or two towards the bottom of the list which are known to have a large Ukrainian population and whose performances to date has been somewhat below expectation. I said that many of these people hardly understood what a bond was and added that it was hard to escape the conclusion that they did not appreciate the importance of the campaign.

EXCELLENT APPEAL

As evidence of the efforts that are being made by the local committees and organizers in such communities I gave a copy of the letter which was quoted in the paper. I did this because I thought the letter constituted an excellent appeal to all who have lately come to this country.

I deeply deplore the impression that may be gathered from the article—that the Ukrainians as a whole are not doing their share. As a matter of fact, the results in other units which also have a large Ukrainian element show the contrary to be the case such as: Innisfree, 195 per cent; Vegreville, 130.2 per cent; Two Hills, 73.4 per cent; Mundare, 73.0 per cent; Waskatenau, 72.1 per cent; Lamont, 63.0 per cent.

Moreover, by the names on many of the applications which are being obtained in the city by the ordinary official representatives and from the canvass of employees of various organizations, it is evident that many of these people also are of Ukrainian origin and are doing their bit.

From the general committee member referred to and from the local Ukrainian committee members and organizers we are getting the fullest and most energetic co-operation and a large part of the success of the loan in northern Alberta will be due to their efforts

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending Thursday totalled $4,508,690.91 as compared to $3,228,-63.74 for the corresponding week last year, the clearing house reports.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Recent order by the British government rationing many articles prompted the Inquiring Reporter to seek opinions on the introduction of a similar rationing in Canada.

THE ANSWERS

LEN LORDON, salesman: We do not know what sacrifice means here, but I am confident the Canadian people will meet cheerfully any restrictions which may be imposed on them to win this war.

ARTHUR SPILLER, accountant: It would be a small price to pay for victory, and I am sure Canadians will accept rationing of food, curtailment of luxuries and any other restrictions which the government may deem necessary for the successful prosecution of the war.

PAUL HARVEY, accountant: Rationing of articles in Britain will conserve shipping, and more money will be spent on war supplies. Canadians would cheerfully accept rationing to achieve these advantages for Canada's war effort.

C. G. Purvis, K.C., crown prosecutor at the city police court, is in Calgary on legal business. Prosecutions in police court are being handled by H. T. Logan during the absence of Mr. Purvis.

For the second successive day proceedings in city police court were run off in near-record time Thursday. Fines of $20 and $30 with costs were imposed on two persons convicted of being intoxicated, while adjournments were ordered in several other cases on the docket.

Final figures are not yet available on the number of applications made by Alberta farmers for the Dominion government wheat acreage reduction bonus, according to W. C Barrie, director of the plan for this province. Mr. Barrie left Thursday for Calgary on a business trip.

Vancouver police have wired Edmonton police in an effort to locate Mrs. P. Kilmartin, whose husband, Patrick Kilmartin, died suddenly in the coast city Wednesday. Mrs. Kilmartin's address here was given as 10028 103, but no such number appears in the city directory. Persons having information of her whereabouts are asked to contact the police.

Mrs. Iva Valera JanKelson of Edmonton was among the 732 students who received degrees at Washington University's eightieth Commencement held Tuesday in the Washington University Field House. She received the degree of Master of Social Work. Washington University is located at St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. JanKelson's home address is reported as 9416 92 street.

Getting Around
with JOHN OLIVER

ONE of the most powerful of the human dynamos contributing motive power to government machinery; a fountain from which flows daily in unending streams and to the four corners of the province, a tremendous volume of information, on a wide variety of subjects, is Robert A. Andison. He is a man of many parts and numerous offices, in which respect he makes a strong bid to rival Pooh-Bah, in The Mikado, who filled so many positions in the town of Titipu that to enumerate them meant a recital of practically every one in existence.

While Mr. Andison is still running in second place to Pooh-Bah, he is, nevertheless, the incumbent of several posts. His chief travail is being clerk of the legislative assembly. Then, again, he fills the role of clerk of the executive council. At the same time, he is the chief electoral officer of the province. In his less busy moments, he functions as a member of the provincial library board. Almost steadily, he is representing the government, or the civil service on one or more committees.

For instance, he acted as a member of the Royal Visit Committee two years ago and he is a member of the civil service committee, supervising distribution of funds contributed by members thereof, to purchase war savings stamps and certificates and to distribute fund to war charities. He carries the weight of his burdens cheerfully, serenely and easily. I have never seen him confused, excited or perturbed, even under the stress of an opening day of a legislative session. He goes his own smooth way, disseminating information authoritatively, completely and yet concise.

He is called on to provide data on many and diverse subjects. A member of the house may call on him to supply, as Pooh-Bah said, "artistic verisimilitude to an otherwise bald and unconvincing narrative" which he proposes to deliver on the floor of the house. He is questioned about some detail of any one of the 3,000 acts—this is only a rough estimate based on a sessional average—passed through the house. He is asked regarding material contained in orders-in-council. Maybe some one wants to know about the Cow Bill, the Natural Resources pact or any one of a thousand subjects.

Like a good encyclopaedia, Mr. Andison usually can supply the information. If he has not the desired material in his mind, he knows where to look for it. He meets adherents and members of all political parties. He encounters men and women of various other callings and to all, he extends courtesy. He respects all confidences—and all parties trust him implicitly. Unlike Pooh-Bah, whose family pride was "enormous," Mr. Andison is a very modest, unassuming man

Church Is Working For Peace Bishop Declares At Banquet

The Christian church has worked earnestly for peace and, if it has so far not succeeded in bringing about lasting peace, it is because of the difficulty men have in listening to advice when their passions are aroused, it was stated by Most Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Edmonton, at a banquet held in compliment to Most Rev. E. Q. Jennings, newly consecrated titular bishop of Sala and auxiliary bishop of Vancouver.

The complimentary banquet, held Wednesday night in the Macdonald hotel, and attended by 350 members of Edmonton and outside Roman Catholic parishes as well as government and military officials, followed the consecration of the new bishop, which took place during the day.

Following toasts to The King and The Pope, the toast to the City of Edmonton was proposed by Most Rev. F. P. Carroll, bishop of Calgary, and replied to by Mayor John W Fry. The toast to The Province was spoken to by Most Rev. C. L. Nelligan, bishop of Pembroke and of the Canadian forces and was replied to by Premier William Aberhart. Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., M.L.A., proposed the toast to The Church, which was responded to by Archbishop MacDonald. The guest of honor was toasted by Most Rev. J. C. McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto and answered by Bishop Jennings.

AT HEAD TABLE

Toastmaster was James T. J. Colleen, K.C., and the gathering was entertained with vocal selections by Father G. L. Green. At the head table, besides the speakers, were the bishop of Vancouver and Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant.

In the toast to the city, Bishop Carroll spoke of "The remarkable talent of Edmonton for producing bishops and chaplains." He took occasion to compliment Bishop Jennings on his elevation.

The city of Edmonton was proud of Bishop Jennings, Mayor Fry said in response. "Edmonton is proud to know that the city has produced such fine churchmen as Archbishop McGuigan, Bishop Nelligan and Bishop Jennings."

Bishop Nelligan, speaking to The Province, spoke of the friendliness and enthusiasm of Albertans. Alberta soldiers overseas are especially popular, he said, complimenting the province on the part it had played in the war. Everything the bombs had destroyed, he added, could be built or born again but if freedom were lost, it would be much harder to regain.

COMPLIMENTS BISHOP

Premier Aberhart complimented Bishop Jennings on his elevation and, replying to the toast to the province, said that Alberta, with its vast resources, hoped to be of use in helping and feeding the world after the war

Speaking to the toast to the Church, Mr. Macdonald said, "We may say that in proportion as a Catholic is true to his faith, the government will find in him [illegible] support of law and order and the highest type of patriotism."

In his response, Archbishop MacDonald spoke of the work for peace which had been carried on by the Roman Catholic church and by the late pope and the present pope. In 1896, he said, the late pope formulated a plan which embodied all the features of the subsequent league of nations.

He pointed out that religion had been trampled in Germany and [illegible] a few weeks ago the last [illegible] paper publishing in [illegible] was suppressed

Every effort is being made by the Victory Loan Committee and representatives and a special appeal is made to all citizens to put Edmonton's general canvass drive "over the top" this week.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: My sister and I married brothers. My marriage is very happy, but my sister and her husband are like strangers living under the same roof. She has everything that any woman could want—a kind and successful husband, three nice children, cars, plenty of money. She likes the money and social standing and trips her husband provides, but she shows him no affecti[illegible] She likes to attend clubs and parties, but has no time or energy to spend on her husband, and she never considers his wants or desires.

Dorothy Dix

I tell her that a man does not care to come home at night to a woman who is cold and disagreeable and nagging, but she does not think she will ever lose him because he is so fond of his children. But don't you think that men become so discouraged and disgusted with wives who do nothing to make them happy that they will give up everything to be in a place where they can be at peace and have a little affection shown them? I do not want to see my sister's home broken up, but I tremble for her safety.

Answer: And well you may. No woman is in greater danger of losing her happy home and her good shopping ticket than the one who plays her husband for a sucker, as the phrase goes, who demands everything of him and gives nothing in return. Sooner or later the man gets tired of working to support a cold, selfish wife, who shows him no affection, who never considers his happiness or pleasure in any way, who does not even take the trouble to make him a comfortable home; and he goes abroad in search of some other woman who will give him the tenderness, the appreciation, the praise for which he hungers and thirsts and which she does not give him.

HUSBANDS LOATHE FAULT-FINDERS

When wives are on their jobs and keep their home fires burning; when they try as hard to keep their husbands as they did to catch them; when they yes-yes teir husbands after marriage even more than they did before marriage; when their husbands are surer of a better dinner at home than they could get at the club and know of no pleasanter place to spend an evening than in their own homes, there is no more danger of such homes being broken up by divorce than there is of their being struck by an avalanche.

It is a pity that women do not realize that marriage is a business proposition as well as a sentimental adventure, and that they cannot get away with cheating. When a man enters into a partnership he expects the party of the other part to do his share of the work, bear his share of the responsibility and put his head and his back into making the firm a success.

And this goes for marriage as well as the grocery trade, and when he finds that his wife is laying down on the job and that she expects him to do all the work and the worrying and for her to reap all the profits, he is mighty likely to throw her out and get in a new partner. And it serves her right too.

DOROTHY DIX.

What To Do

WHAT TO DO THURSday

Just how should a person congratulate a newly married couple if they are not together or if you just meet one of them. This is always a puzzling matter to me.

MISS M. M. R.

Answer—I don't think there is any set rule about expressing congratulations. It depends entirely on how well you know the couple and under what circumstances you meet. For instance, if on the street, you would not have an opportunity to say more than a few words, such as "Hello, I'm glad to see you and wish you every happiness."

If you meet socially, you would have an opportunity to say more—to inquire about their honeymoon and extend your congratulations and best wishes. And whether you met the couple or just one of them there would be no difference in the way you expressed your good wishes.

Housewives Urge Extra Fish Day Weekly

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Fish twice a week—that's the new defense slogan for housewives who keep their protein standards high and their food costs low.

All over the country women's groups are urging their local fish dealers to make Tuesday a bargain fish day as well as Friday.

Here are a few rules for successful fish cookery:

TO BAKE FISH—WHOLE AND STUFFED

Head and tail may be left on. Wash, rub with salt inside and out. Stuff with a savory bread crumb stuffing, and sew the opening. Brush with melted butter, or place strips of bacon or salt pork on top. Place on a greased shallow pan or oven-proof platter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until browned, basting occasionally with drpipings. A fish weighing 3 pounds will take 35-40 minutes and a 5-pound fish, 50 to 60 minutes.

TO BAKE FILLETS

Two fillets may be put together with a well-seasoned stuffing. Keep in place with skewers or toothpicks, brush with butter and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30-35 minutes, basting frequently.

TO BAKE FISH WITH "AUCE

A fish may be split or filleted and covered with any suitable sauce, topped with buttered bread crumbs an baked in a moderate oven (325-350 degrees F.) for about half an hour. Fillets may be poached and heated in a sauce in the oven.

TO BROIL FISH

Use fillets or split fish, cut in portions if desired. Place fish on oiled rack (with skin side down if fillets are not used). Season with salt and pepper and brush with melted butter or other fat. Broil under a moderate flame until lightly browned and cooked through. Lift carefully onto hot platter. A thick piece of fish may be broiled until lightly browned, and then removed to moderate oven, to bake until done.

Tomorrow's Menu

Luncheon — Baked beans, bran and raisin muffins, prunes and sliced bananas, tea, milk.

Minute Make-Ups

Your make-up must be carefully done. Remember—you go out into the daylight and soon it's night! Take along a compact of dry rouge, a matching shade of lipstick and your eyeshadow. Freshen up a bit as the lights come on. Smooth on a bit more eyeshadow, a little compact rouge and deepen and accent your lipstick.

This fair-weather style will keep you trim and cool-looking for gardening, playing or lounging 'neath the sun. It's an Anne Adams summer special, pattern 4734, and as useful as it is attractive. The dress is in suntan style, with a soft, centre-darted bodice, a sleek, wide waistband that's slimly "upped" in front, and a flaring, action-free skirt. No side placket it needed, for a buttoned or slide-fastened back closing lets you in and out easily. The top of the frock is held neatly in place by a back halter band that joints the straps. To make a complete sctreet or town costume, finish off this style with the jaunty bolero, shown here in brilliant contrast. Do start this simple outfit now!

Pattern 4734 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, dress, takes 3 yards 35-inch fabric and bolero, 1⅜ yards contrast.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

UMPIRES DO NOT WATCH THE HOME PLATE

People who attend baseball games and watch the umpire, believe that he keeps his eye on the home plate by the person at bat. But this is not true. He pays no attention to the home plate. The umpire forms in his imagination a mythical rectangle, 17 inches wide, extending from the batter's shoulders to his knees. He decides whether or not the pitched ball passes through this imaginary rectangle, and on the basis of this decision, he calls "strikes" or "balls." The umpire lives in a mythical and imaginary world, so don't blame him if he seems to be dreaming at times.

Your Baby And Mine

It's a disappointment to a parent to discover how few remedies there are for this ailment—and virtually no sure cures. The nausea is the result of the effort of the [illegible] to achieve equilibrium in moving vehicles. Most of us manage this without conscious effort.

The fluid in the ear canals is responsible for this ability to achieve balance when it is jeopardized, but when the ability is deficient, the result is a sort of sea-sickness which is helped when the stomach is emptied.

Mrs. A. W. wonders if I would suggest something to help her 2-year-old daughter get through a trip without vomiting.

"We usually start on a trip after the child's noon nap and it is always her lunch which she loses. Would it help to give her only milk at noon and then carry milk with us in case she got hungry before dinner? She is never sick once she vomits."

You could try out your scheme. But it would be better to give only solid foods, rather than milk, for the noon meal. You might try letting her go without food, or start your journey before lunch. No one can tell you what will work; you can only experiment and see what happens. If she started the trip when she was sleepy and could nap, you might find that the lying down position would be helpful.

Mrs. F. Y.—I am so sorry to be unable to send your sister the leaflets you suggested. I would have been most happy to do this if you had been willing to let her know you were sending them. But, if you do not want to give her your name, how would I feel to have her think that I, a stranger, was thrusting this material upon her?

Mothers-in-law who disapprove of their daughters' practices; sisters who want to show up their sister's methods as poor; a neighbor who wishes to tell the little mother down the street how badly she is caring for her baby, so often have the bright idea of sending me envelopes addressed to the persons whom they wish to criticize and asking me to send them leaflets.

It can't be done. Leaflets are for the aid of mothers, not to be used as attacks upon them. If mothers want them they are able to get them for only a self-addressed and three-cent-stamped envelope. If other mothers want to help them, then they must come right out in the open and be willing to sign their names and let the mothers know exactly who was responsible for the gift of the leaflets. Sent in such a spirit of helpfulness the leaflets might be truly useful. Sent any other way they would promptly go into the waste basket—and make an enemy for me, besides. I hope mothers who have asked me this favor will see why I have been unable to honor it.

"Travelling With Children" is a pertinent leaflet for this particular period. It will be sent to you on request if you will write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing the leaflet to you.

Learn To Play The Piano
The Easy Short-Cut Way

Playing An Aid To Popularity

Always in demand for dates and parties—the girl who can play the piano. Her popular tunes, gay dance music attract an eager audience wherever she goes.

And you can teach yourself to play. A clever shart which you place behind the piano keys makes it simple to read music.

Keys on the chart correspond exactly to the piano keys and with each pictured key is the note which is its symbol in music. You just look at your piece to see which note comes on the staff, then find that not on the chart with the key to strike for it. Soon you'll instinctively place your fingers on the right keys.

Then, there's a quick way to learn popular music which gives you a dazzling repertoire in no time. Play the melody line with your right hand, a few accompanying chords with your left.

Have fun playing the piano. Our 24-page instruction book includes keyboard chart, explains musical terms, time values, flats, sharps. Has tables of chords; music for 3 favorite songs.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Quick Course In Piano Playing" to The Edmonton Bullletin, Home Service, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of instruction book.

Only a few years ago, little was known of the vitamins and [illegible] health. [illegible] that [illegible] portant [illegible] health and [illegible] and laughed at. Tobacco Jobbers Not Compelled To Join Price Plan

Northern Alberta tobacco jobbers were not compelled to join an organized price maintenance movement, but a majority of them favored such an organization as beneficial to the trade, H. Fazackerley, Edmonton, secretary of the Northern Alberta Jobbers Association, said Wednesday in the "tobacco combine" trial of 36 manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers.

Cross-examined by defence counsel he said the Northern Alberta Jobbers Association maintained no secrecy in its operations. He said the organization was believed to be a lawful co-operation of jobbers to maintain tobacco prices set by manufacturers and to eliminate unfair trade practices.

Man Faces Five Assault Charges

Alex. Decoteau faces five charges of assault causing actual bodily harm and of causing wilful damage following a disturbance at an East End hotel early Thursday.

According to reports of Constables Pakaluk, Lyttle and Irvine, who were called to the hotel at 1:30 a.m., a man smashed his way into a room occupied by Era Stevenson, who was assaulted after the door was broken down.

Four employees of the hotel suffered injuries in attempting to subdue the assailant of the Stevenson woman, according to the report.

Conrad Brakke, clerk, has an injured nose and cut upper lip as a result of the struggle. Fred Slye, hotel employee, has a possible fracture of the cheek bone and [illegible] Henry Benoit has facial cuts. Alfred Alabelle suffered a cut lip.

The Stevenson woman is said to have been retiring to bed when the man burst into her room. She suffered some injuries and had her clothing torn, it was reported.

Decoteau is said to have come here from Saskatchewan.

Decoteau appeared before Magistrate Millar in city police court on Thursday and hearing of all charges was set over until June 17. No plea was taken.

Benoit and Slye are under treatment at the Royal Alexandra hospital.

H. C. Pettit manager of the hotel, laid a charge of wilful damage as a result of the broken room door.

Demonstration For War Loan By Fusiliers

March through city streets by a detachment of the 2nd Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers M.G., (R)CA, featured activities at the recruiting centre, 101 street and Jasper, and at Victory Loan headquarters Wednesday night.

The Fusiliers, headed by the regimental band under R. A. Bullock, marched from Victoria Armory north on 106 street, east on Jasper to Howard avenue and then swung back west on Jasper. A halt was called in front of Victory Loan headquarters.

Lieut. D. N. Grubb climbed the ladder by the thermometer in front of Victory Loan headquarters and painted the mark to show 84 per cent of the Edmonton general canvass had been reached.

The detachment then presented arms and moved westward. The troops were in battle dress, with webb equipment and rifles with bayonets fixed. Capt. Herbert L. Simpson was in charge.

TAKES SALUTE

Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson, officer commanding the regiment and in charge of the Recruiting Centre, stood at the corner of 101 street and Jasper and took the salute from his men. The troops then moved westward to 100 street and back to the Armory.

Lt.-Col. Jamieson and his staff at the recruiting hut were kept busy throughout Wednesday evening. [illegible] recruits were signed.

A large crowd gathered to witness the entertainment put on by Vernon W. Barford, organist and choirmaster of All Saint Cathedral and his junior choir. The entertainment, being put on nightly by a central committee functioning under the direction of W. G. Strachan, Ed McGarvey and Jack Strachan is providing a great drawing card.

The mobile recruiting unit from Military District 13 which is touring the northern half of the province, will arrive at the Prince of Wales Armory at 8 p.m. Thursday. From 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. Friday there will be a demonstration of tent-pitching, trench-wiring and other features of military life in front of the Prince of Wales Armory and in the evening there will be an anti-gas demonstration and other features in front of the Recruiting Centre. Wire entanglements will be erected and infantry advancing under smoke screens will be shown.

BREN GUN CARRIER

The mobile recruiting unit is headed by Maj. P. J. A. Fleming, formerly of the Edmonton Regiment. There are five officers and 125 other ranks in the convoy of 10 vehicles, including a Bren-gun carrier, the first to visit here. Tribute Paid Faithful Work Of New Bishop

Tribute to the contribution of Most Rev. Edward Q. Jennings, newly-appointed auxiliary bishop of Vancouver, to the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Edmonton, was paid by Rev. Mark E. Murphy of this city at a luncheon in the Macdonald hotel, Wednesday.

The luncheon, complimenting the new bishop was presided over by His Excellency Archbishop Hugh John MacDonald, of this city. Archbishop MacDonald introduced the speakers, Father Murphy, who spoke on behalf of the English-speaking clergy of the city; Rev. Emile Tessier, P.P., of Legal, Alberta, who spoke on behalf of the French-speaking clergy of the diocese; and Hon. Maj. the Rt. Rev. William B. Carleton, V.G., P.D., Belgian Croix de Guerre, who spoke on behalf of the Catholic chaplaincy.

GENEROUS CONTRIBUTION

"Your contribution to the archdiocese has been as great as it has been generous," Father Murphy said. "To your work you have devoted faith, charity, loyalty to duty and to friendship. We are happy that you have been made a member of the Catholic hierarchy and hope that the intelligence and action you have employed in the past will assist you in your new work."

Speaking in French, Father Tessier spoke of the natural ability and talent which Bishop Jennings has shown in his past work in the Edmonton archdiocese. "The late Archbishop O'Leary honored you with his confidence and with important duties, as did the present Archbishop of Edmonton, and we know that Archbishop Duke will avail himself of those same excellent qualities," he said.

ARMY SERVICE

On behalf of the Catholic chaplaincy, Rt. Rev. W. B. Carleton paid tribute to the work of Bishop Jennings as chaplain of the R.C.A.F. No. 2 Training Command in Winnipeg, and said that the Bishop had gained the praise of both the military and ecclesiastic officials there. "Your work of soldiering in the past war is known to many as was your chaplaincy during this one." He called attention to the fact that Bishop Jennings is the first Canadian chaplain to be raised to the episcopacy of the Roman Catholic church.

VOICES THANKS

Replying to the addresses, Bishop Jennings thanked all those who assisted him in his work in the Edmonton archdiocese and in his chaplaincy.

During the fifteen years which I served in the Edmonton diocese, I was constantly in contact with a body of clergy who brought me great priestly inspiration. "I know of no other group with which I would sooner have performed my daily task," the Bishop said.

He spoke of having been second assistant to Archbishop McGuigan, of Edmonton at a time when Bishop Nelligan was first assistant, both of whom attended the luncheon.

AT HEAD TABLE

Seated at the head table with the guest of honor were Archbishop MacDonald, Archbishop W. M. Duke of Vancouver, Archbishop McGuigan of Toronto, [illegible] Most Rev. Leo Nelligan, bishop of Pembroke, Ont., and bishop [illegible] ordinary to the Canadian forces; Bishop F. P. Carroll, Calgary; Bishop Basil Ladyka, Winnipeg, head of all the Roman Catholic Ukrainians in Canada; Bishop M. M. Johnson, Nelson, B.C.

Britain's move into Syria was no surprise to military men. Necessity dictated invasion.

This French-mandated territory could serve as a tactical base for operations against the Suez Canal region and the oil fields in Iraq, both objectives of great import to Britain.

Reports have been current that Axis forces had landed at Latakia; there were numerous claims that German army men, disguised as tourists, were infiltrating into strategic posts in Syria. It was not denied that German airplanes, en route to aid the now routed Rashid Al Geilani in the Iraqu uprising, landed and fueled at Syrian air bases.

Syria rises sharply from the Mediterranean, to heights of 10,000 feet. Eastward, the terrain falls away in a series of steppes to the Euphrates. The advantage of a "downhill pull" lies with the army that invades Iraq from Syria.

Syria is cut by several marked north-to-south depressions. In the last war, Gen. Allenby's troops fought along these deep gullies in the battles for Jerusalem and Damascus.

• • • •

Were Syria in Axis hands, those north-south depressions could serve as routes for invasion of Palestine and the Suez area.

There is a pipeline terminus from the Mosul-Kirkuk oil fields at Tripoli in Syria. If the Axis invaded Syria and from there successfully thrust into the oil fields, it conceivably could replenish its oil stocks at the pipeline terminus. Certainly the task of transporting the oil to Italy and thence to Germany would be lightened by control of the northern waters of the Mediterranean hastened by control of Crete.

Syria garrisoned by soldiers of a government committed to collaboration with the Axis, was a constant menace to Britain in the Near East.

The action undertaken by Britain means fighting in difficult country. Invader and defender alike must move along virtually waterless desert roads, menaced by recurrent sandstorms. The oases in the Syrian desert along the old caravan route to Baghdad can be of utmost import to mechanized operations.

The reported British column moving up the Euphrates toward Deir-ez-Zor and Palmyra probably aims to control these waterholes, as "insurance" against possible Nazi troop movements, and to permit further British operations in the area if necessary.

• • • •

Syria is a conglomeration of peoples. Kurds, Armenians, Syrians, Arabs and Druses mingle in the population of roughly 3,000,000. The populace has no reason to remember Germans with friendly feelings. In the last war, Syria was swept by starvation as Turko-German troops stripped the country.

Likewise the British and Free French may find Allies in the warlike Druses. These mountain tribesmen repeatedly clashed with French mandate authorities and called out a full dress action of French troops before they were subdued in 1923-26.

The British have a definite advantage in the Syrian theatre in that their airplanes are closer to base—for the first time in this war—than Axis flying forces. Warplanes from Axis bases on Crete and Rhodes must fly much farther than R.A.F. planes based in Trans-Jordan and Palestine. In their invasion of Crete, German fliers had the closer bases, and the reversal of the situation is in British favor here.

Still Bottleneck In Assembling Of American Planes

LONDON, June 12—(CP)—J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, minister of aircraft production, told the House of Commons Tuesday there still is a "bottleneck" in receiving and assembling increased deliveries of United States aircraft.

He declared "all steps" are being taken to make the maximum number possible of aircraft available for operational flying without delay.

The minister spoke after Edgar Granville (Liberal National) had asked whether he did not believe "it would be worthwhile to have a separate organization of men who understood American aircraft and American methods."

The minister said this "is being done."

Senate Adopts Amendment Made To Taxation Bill

OTTAWA, June 12—(CP)—The House of Commons Wednesday night adopted a senate amendment to a taxation bill with a declaration it was waiving none of its privileges and the incident should not be taken as a precedent.

The amendment provided that a 10 per cent tax on non-Canadian insurance companies operating in Canada without a federal licence should not come into effect until the supreme court of Canada had found it constitutional.

In moving an option of the amendment Finance Minister Ilsley referred to the constitutional practice that only the house of commons may deal with money bills and that the senate may not change such bills.

The minister said the amendment had little if any effect on the revenue. He had already agreed to refer the tax to the courts for a test of its constitutionality.

Britain Planning To Check Soaring Prices With Bill

LONDON, June 12—(CP)—A far-reaching bill designed to check soaring prices and speculation in commodities was given first reading in the House of Commons today.

Entitled the "goods and services price control bill," it empowers the board of trade to fix maximum prices to be charged at any state of production or distribution for specified goods and for the performing of services in relation to the goods.

The powers are expected to be used in the first place to cover a restricted range of goods such as certain articles of clothing, boots and shoes. The range probably will be extended later.

Services are defined as including the hire of goods and the subjecting of goods to any process, such as furniture storage, boot repairing, laundering and cleaning.

Cabinet Resigns

LA PAZ, Bolivia, June 12—(AP)—The entire Bolivian cabinet presented its resignation to President Gen. Enrique Penaranda last night following several days of rumors that Left-wing elements were planning a revolutionary uprising. Gen. Penaranda accepted the resignations and it was reported the cabinet will be reorganized today in order to meet the crisis.

Given Knighthoods

CANBERRA, June 12—(AAP)—Three prominent Australians received knighthoods in the King's birthday honors list announced today. The three are Col. George John Bell, former speaker of the house of representatives; Frederic William Eccleston, who is engaged in war economics research, and Hon. Albert Louis Bussau, president of the Country Party in Victoria.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Farm Week Is Claimed To Be Best Yet Held

The best yet, was the way Donald Cameron, director of the University of Alberta department of extension, described the 23rd annual University Week for Alberta farm young people, at the closing banquet Wednesday night at Athabasca Lounge.

Two hundred were in attendance at the banquet, at which University, provincial government, United Farmers of Alberta, and grain company officials spoke briefly to the 104 youth attending the Week. Feature of the evening was the presentation of prizes to winners of the various competitions held in conjunction with the farm young people's week.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Annie Davidson, of Stony Plain, and James Bishop, of Three Hills, won the Department of Agriculture Scholarships entitling them to enter the Provincial School of Agriculture at Olds. The awards were made on the basis of a reading course during the winter months, and lectures at the farm young people's week.

Short addresses were given by Dr. J. M. MacEachran, acting president of the University of Alberta; Robert Gardiner, president of the United Farmers of Alberta; Ben Plumer, director of farm youth work in the Alberta Wheat Pool; and Mr. Stevens, of the United Grain Growers.

The farm young people were urged by Dr. MacEachran to carry the spirit of the University back with them to their communities, "for the University is really and truly the centre of the spiritual and intellectual life of this province."

PREPARE FOR FUTURE

"It is a fine thing for the University that this Week is held," said Dr. MacEachran, "for it brings the university into touch with those who soon will undertake the responsibility of running this province."

Robert Gardiner stressed the fact that the United Farmers of Alberta are taking and will continue to take every interest possible in farm young people's work. "We want to see that those who will take our place get every chance to fit themselves for this task."

Mr. Gardiner paid tribute to the late Dr. Henry Wise Woods as "the greatest leader Canadian farmers ever had."

Calling upon the farm youth to take their place in their community, Ben Plumer said that such would be necessary "if a proper balance is to be maintained between agriculture as a fundamental industry and other services and industries in this country."

Final words given to the farm young people by Donald Cameron, supervisor of the Week, were: "Put more emphasis on your responsibilities and duties, than on your rights and privileges."

A field day and scholarship examinations featured the final day's activities at the University Week for farm young people at the University of Alberta Wednesday.

Morning lectures included farm cost accounting by H. McLaughlin, forage crops by Dr. J. Fryer and agricultural engineering by Prof. J. Macgregor Smith. Talks were given by Mrs. F. C. Butterworth and Dr. J. S. Shoemaker.

Thursday is departure day for the young people attending the Week.

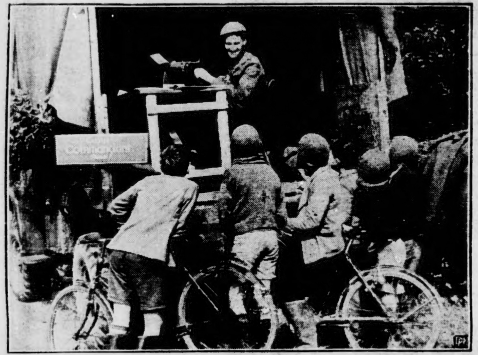
Women "Man" Mop-Up Squad—Preparing Fancy Dishes Of Smoke And Flame For Hun—They Charmed South America

British women are now being assigned to duty with the squads that clear the debris after air raids and to other tasks that heretofore were regarded as "man's work." Mrs. Francis Kellam and her daughter, Edith, are shown at work in London. Mrs. Kellam is the mother of 13 children, five of whom are serving with British forces.

In what might truly be called a "hell's kitchen" somewhere in Canada, these women are busily engaged cooking up a menu of smoke and flame for the Nazis. They produce parachute flares for lighting up bomb targets, smoke shells for obscuring troop movements and a wide variety of other pyrotechnics. Although the woman at the left appears to be spreading a batch of fancy cookies, she is actually laying out igniter caps for smoke cartridges. The workers at right are welding cases for parachute flares.

Despite the war, these British models made a tour of South America for the purpose of putting British styles on display. They are returning to New York (first lap of their journey home), after a successful fashion mission. Mascot "Barry," English bulldog, accompanies them. Left to right are Babs Thorn, Ricky Richardson, Cynthia Maugham and Pat Bainter.



Despite the sign proclaiming the privacy of the Camp Commandant's office on wheels, these English school lads are having a chat with Sgt. T. Anderson, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who seems to be enjoying the indiscretion of his young callers.

Mrs. Ray Colcord of New York, wife of a volunteer ambulance driver, thought that her husband had perished on the missing Egyptian liner Zamzam. Next day she read the headlines: "All on Zamzam Saved." Wheeeee!

Quakertown Makes Sure Invaders Will Get Hot Reception

Parachute or glider invaders will be assured of a hot time in the city of brotherly love should they attempt a landing in or about Philadelphia. Members of the Northeast Gun club seem to have the matter well in hand and are now engaged in doing their bit as part of the training program of the home defence unit set up by the Frankford Post 211 of the American Legion. They are shown drawing a bead on a "raider" at Somerton airport. The parashots sharpen up their sniping eyes by potting at balloons.

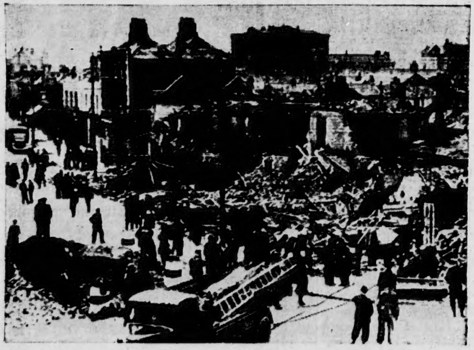
New Wife, New Face For Budge

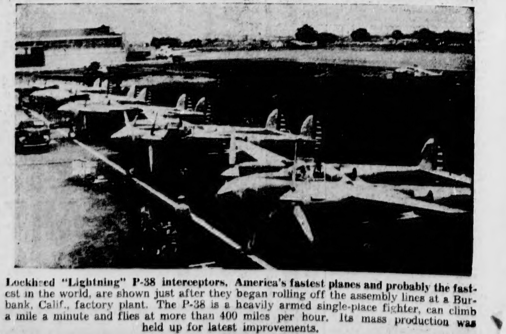
Don Budge, professional tennis star, is pictured with his bride, 19-year-old Deirdre Conselman of Glendale, Calif., immediately after their wedding in Chicago. As a pre-wedding gift, a New York plastic surgeon gave Don a new profile, straightening his nose and lifting his chin.

Occupational therapy includes the planting of potatoes. These injured service men are digging for recovery and victory in the grounds of a hospital in the south of England. Doctors have discovered that, given new interests of this nature, these men recuperate quickly and keep in better spirits.



This scene in the North Strand, one of the main business sections of Dublin, shows the severe damage done by an air raid from unidentified planes. Rescue squads found more than 30 slain, 25 missing and 300 injured in the May 31 bombing of the Eire capital. After examining bomb fragments, Dublin blamed Germany for the raid. This was the second raid on Dublin and the ninth on the country. Eire is nominally neutral in this war.

World's Fastest Fighter Now Pouring Off Assembly Lines



Lockheed "Lightning" P-38 interceptors, America's fastest planes and probably the fastest in the world, are shown just after they began rolling off the assembly lines at a Burbank, Calif., factory plant. The P-38 is a heavily armed single-place fighter, can climb a mile a minute and flies at more than 400 miles per hour. Its mass production was held up for latest improvements.

The Man I Want

By Rob Eden

KAY ALLISON, daughter of CARTER and MYRA ALLISON, has prepared for a large church wedding in Memphis. She is to marry BARRY FLYNN, Nevada mine owner who operates his mine in partnership with JETTA DORNE, a girl with whom he had once thought himself in love. Jetta sends notes to Kay, telling her Barry will not show up for the wedding. Barry sees the notes, scoffs at them. However, with everybody waiting at the church, the wedding march is being played for the third time and Barry has failed to arrive. Hurried calls to Barry's apartment, the hospitals and the police station provide no clews. After the wedding guests have been dismissed, GEORGE, Kay's brother, and her parents are bitter. Kay, however, sure there is a reasonable explanation, sets out to find the man she still hopes to marry.

CHAPTER THREE

TEN minutes after she had left her home, Kay was ringing the bell to Barry's apartment. As she shifted impatiently from one foot to the other, she wondered if Ching had returned yet, and then the door swung open and the Chinese boy was asking her to come in.

Kay shot a quick glance at the man seated comfortably in a big leather chair, reading the evening paper, and caught a flash of his eyes as he glanced in her direction.

"I want to talk to you," she said. "Also I want to look around the place to see if Barry left a note for me."

"We better go through to the kitchen," Ching whispered. "There is a man waiting in living room to see Mister Flynn."

MAN WAITING

Kay shot a quick glance at the man seated comfortably in a big leather chair, reading the evening paper and caught a flash of his eyes as he glanced in her direction. She followed Ching swiftly across the room and into the kitchen, closing the door after her.

"Who is that man?" she demanded.

"A Mister Gilbert—Mister Stanley Gilbert."

"But who is he? What does he want here?"

Ching shrugged his shoulders.

"I no know, Miss," he said.

"Come on, then, let's look around and see what we can find."

The girl led the way to Barry's bedroom. There were no signs of disorder there, nor in his dressing room. A search of tables and chests of drawers failed to reveal any trace of a note. There was nothing to indicate that Barry had left hurriedly.

The two of them returned to the kitchen.

"Now tell me, Ching, exactly what happened this evening. You were in the apartment, weren't you, when Mr. Flynn phoned me?"

"Yes, Miss. I hear him talking in living room while I finish closing suit cases to bring to your house. He say he going to change there after reception."

"Of course," Kay said, impatiently, "I know those thing.. Then what happened?"

"He tell me to take his car and bring extra baggage to your house. He would go to church in taxi. Just as I leave apartment, phone ring and he call me to answer. I do. A man on phone. Man he Mister Stanley Gilbert and ask if Mister Flynn here. I say yes. He say, I be coming up. I say, one minute, please, and go see Mister Flynn in bedroom. He ask me who it is, and I tell him."

"Did he seem surprised? Upset?"

SEEMED JUMPY

"He seem very jumpy, Miss. His eyes open wide as he look at me. 'Mister Gilbert?' he ask. 'What his first name?' 'Mister Stanley Gilbert,' I say. He seem to get hold of hisself, and laughed a little. He tell me to tell Mister Gilbert to come up in five minutes. So I do, then I picked up bags. Mister Flynn say he be along soon in taxi, that is all I know. I not see him again."

"He must have stayed long enough to admit this Mr. Gilbert to the apartment. Otherwise, how did he get in?"

"No, Miss, that not right. When I come home, elevator boy tell me he let Mister Gilbert into apartment to wait. Mr. Gilbert come up and ring bell. No one answer and after while Mr. Gilbert tell elevator boy Mister Flynn expect him—he old friend, he say. So boy open door and let him in."

"Then Barry must have been gone when Mr. Gilbert came up."

"Yes, Miss, I think so. I no ask Mister Gilbert. When I come in, he ask when I expect Mister Flynn. I not know what say, so I say, he come back soon, I think, so Mister Gilbert say he wait."

"Did you ever hear of this Gilbert before? You've be with Mr. Flynn a long time, haven't you?"

"Yes, Miss, I be with him five years, but I never hear him say anything about a Mister Gilbert. I never hear name before that I can remember."

It was so utterly unlike Barry to be afraid of anyone, to avoid anyone, that Kay was puzzled. She considered the situation for some time.

After all, what did she know about Barry Flynn except what he had told her himself? True, she had known his sister, slightly, before he came to town, but not intimately. She simply knew that Gladys was married to a Memphis cotton broker whom her father had known for some time.

About Barry's personal life, what had happened before he found the mine, she knew virtually nothing. He had gone to school in California—taken a mining engineering course. But he never had mentioned any of his friends—not even Jetta, until Miss Dorne's notes started coming and she showed them to him.

MINE WAS REAL

The Falling Star mine, she knew, was real enough. George had told her that. He also had learned that the owners were listed as Barry Flynn and J. Dorne.

Ching was nervously arranging things in the kitchen, looking frequently at Kay, but not venturing to volunteer any more information.

Suddenly, she made up her mind and reaching for the telephone extension in the kitchen dialed the airport.

"Has Mr. Barry Flynn taken his plane out tonight?" she asked the night manager. He promised to check, and called back in a few minutes.

"Yes, Miss. Mr. Flynn took off just about ten minutes ago—alone. He didn't say where he was going although he sent several telegrams from the office out here before he left."

Kay thanked him, and hung up. So Barry had run away! He had made good on Jetta's threats in the notes she had written to Kay. He had failed to show up for the wedding, just as Jetta said he would.

Ching seemed utterly bewildered when the girl told him that his employer had gone away, in his plane.

"But what I do, Miss?" he inquired. "I all alone. I no know what to do?"

"If I were you, I'd stay here until you hear from Mr. Flynn. He'll probably wire you what to do with his things and about closing the apartment. You'd better come over to our house in the morning and pick up the bags you left there."

SPEAKS TO GILBERT

Perhaps Mr. Gilbert might be able to shed some light on Barry's sudden and mysterious departure, Kay thought, so she walked into the living room.

"You are Mr. Stanley Gilbert, I believe?" she asked.

"Yes, Miss." Gilbert got hastily to his feet. Kay saw that he was quite tall, certainly more than six feet, and his broad shoulders seemed too big for his coat, although it was perfectly tailored. His face and hands were sunburned to almost a mahogany shade, and his steel blue eyes were rather startling as they looked down at her from this dark background. His hair, neatly trimmed, was brown and had a suspicion of a wave, although he apparently had brushed it strenuously to overcome this tendency. He had a strong, rugged face, and, like Barry looked as though he had spent much of his life in the open. Kay thought he probably was about 32, Barry's age.

She didn't realize she had been staring at him, until he prompted her.

"You were going to ask something, Miss?"

"Oh, yes. I am Miss Allison—Kay Allison, Mr. Flynn's fiancee. I understand you are waiting for him."

"That's right," Gilbert nodded. "When do you expect him?"

"I don't—now," Kay answered. "He left the airport in his plane some time ago, without telling anyone his destination or when he would return."

If Stanley Gilbert were surprised, he didn't betray it.

"Well, then," he smiled, "I guess there's no need of waiting, is there?"

"You're an old friend of Barry's?" she suggested.

"Yes, we've known each other for a long time."

"Strange, he never mentioned you to me."

"I've been away—out of the country. Well, I guess I'll be running along. Thank you for the information. It's been a pleasure, meeting you."

He picked up his hat from the table, bowed slightly to Kay, and walked to the door. Ching, who had come in to the room, opened it for him, and then closed it after he had gone.

"Have you any idea where Barry might have gone?" Kay asked the Chinaman.

"No, Miss—suppose, though, he go to the mine, back to—" he broke off, and didn't finish the sentence.

Kay had the idea, however, that if he had completed it he would have said Barry was going back to Jetta Dorne.

Gilbert was just stepping into the elevator as she left the apartment, and he spoke to the boy, having him wait for her.

"Thank you," she said, as the car slid smoothly down the shaft to the street floor.

Last Respects Paid To Airman

Marked by the tribute of members of the R.C.A.F., piloting aircraft over the cemetery and dipping their wings, funeral services were conducted Thursday afternoon for LAC. John William Dodds, 23, of 12135 93 street, killed early Tuesday when his Tiger Moth training plane crashed near the city limits.

Conducting the service was Rev J. Gordon Brown, minister of Robertson United church, from Howard & McBride's funeral chapel. Interment was made in the Edmonton cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers, all leading aircraftmen from No. 16, E.F.T.S. here, were G. M. Larson, A. D. Smith, C. A. Cunningham, K. S. Starchuk, E. G. Motherwell and E. H. Miller. Active pallbearers were LAC.s. C. R. Sandison, J. A. Hall, N. Unterseher, J. A. Morton, C. L. Wenzel and T. H. Lancaster.

An Air Force firing party fired a salute at the graveside as personnel from the training schools here stood with heads bowed.

Calgarian Head Of Optometrists

J. E. Hopkins of Calgary was elected president of the Alberta Optometric Association at the annual convention held in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday. He succeeds A. R. Carter of Edmonton, who remains on the council for a year as retiring president.

A. G. Millar of Lethbridge was named registrar, and F. J. Nuttall of Lethbridge, secretary-treasurer. Members of the council are D. L. Francis, Edmonton; H. J. Snell, Red Deer; R. H. Morrison and M. Anderson, Calgary.

The council was instructed to make a survey of regulations in Canadian and American cities regarding eye tests for motorists. It was proposed that the association recommend compulsory eye tests for drivers in Alberta. Delegates felt this would help solve the traffic accident problem.

Federal authorities will be asked to make a greater use of optometrists serving in the army, navy and air force.

Interment was made in the family plot in the Edmonton cemetery. Pallbearers were Dr. Redmond, Douglas Lockerbie, David Stirton, Paul Lichert, Richard Rice and Harry Robinson. In attendance at the services was a daughter, Mrs. W. M. Fife, from Boston, Mass., who arrived in the city by plane Wednesday evening.

Mrs. May was a life member of the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old-Timers' Association and in early years was active in the Y.W. C.A. and First Presbyterian church.

Foster and McGarvey, funeral directors, were in charge of arrangements.

Finance Methods In Province Are Explained By Low

Methods employed in financing a province formed the subject of an address by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, to the Optimist Club at its regular meeting at the Macdonald hotel Thursday. Mr. Low outlined to the club the difference between direct and indirect taxation. Taxation, he said, was the main source of government revenue. In the provincial sphere of direct taxation, came the taxation on gasoline, incomes, corporations, and others. Dominion taxation includes sales tax, customs and other forms.

Insurance Act Is Explained At Meet

Detailed explanation of the operation of the Unemployment Insurance Act was given to members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce executive council Wednesday by J. Boyd McBride, K.C. Mr. McBride termed the act "one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted in recent years."

The act contains 103 sections and will not be fully operative until about five years have passed. The speaker stated it would be of tremendous benefit in the post-war period when closing down of war industries would be bound to bring unemployment difficulties.

One of the first Edmontonians to write a letter of congratulation to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett on the announcement of his elevation to the peerage was John Blue, secretary-manager of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Blue, who was a close personal friend of the former Canadian prime minister, declared he had no doubt that Mr. Bennett "would thrill the Lords with your eloquence, just as you thrilled me with your speeches on the Alberta and Great Waterways question in the Alberta legislature."

Delayed on his way west—possibly by a visit to Ottawa—Brig. R. A. Wyman is expected to arrive here by airplane on Friday to visit his family. Mercury Climbs To Season High: Hits 81 Above

Wednesday was the warmest day so far this season, but reports Thursday morning indicated that the new high of 81 above as recorded at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday would not be standing long. At 8:30 a.m. Thursday the mercury had risen to 71 above, and with a forecast of "continued warm," it is expected that the temperature will be well over the 80 above mark before the late afternoon.

Overnight low of 54 above was recorded at 3:30 a.m. Thursday. Average temperature for the day, 68 above, was four degrees higher than that of one year ago.

Put Loan Over Top This Week City Is Asked

Edmonton has a general quota and a special names quota, H. M. E. Evans, chairman of the campaign for Northern Alberta, explained Thursday. The latter is composed of a comparatively small list, including government funds and larger businesses, together with a few individuals, who are expected to be able to buy from $25,000 up of the Victory bonds. There are only 32 purchasers in the special names list so far.

As against this, the general canvass shows 2,776 individual purchasers. The general canvass is being made by teams of official representatives and committees of institutions and organizations who are conducting internal canvasses. It also includes subscriptions placed directly through the banks.

The total quota for Edmonton is $5,480,000, of which the city has now obtained $3,260,350, or 59.5 per cent.

Outside divisions of northern Alberta on Wednesday subscribed $119,300 to the loan for a total to date of $1,172,900, reaching 91.6 per cent of the rural quota of $1,280,000. This brings the northern Alberta total to $198,650 for Wednesday and $4,433,250 up to date, which is 65.4 per cent of the quota of $6,760,000.

RURAL DIVISIONS

Standings of the rural divisions in percentage of quota are: Div. 10, Daysland to Provost, 167.2; Div. 4, Edson-Jasper-Coal Branch, 148.6; Div. 8, Tofield-Wainwright, 121.5; Div. 1, Peace River, 118; Div. 6, Willingdon-Lloydminster, 108; Div. 3, Waskatenau-St. Paul, 67.3; Div. 9, Leduc-Ponoka-Camrose, 64.8; Div. 7, Spruce Grove-Sangudo-Fort Saskatchewan, 62.6; Div. 2, Legal-Waterways-N.W.T., .29. In the last named division, many reports have not yet been received.

Units which have more than doubled their quotas are, with percentages: Sexsmith, 418.5; Hughenden, 378.2; Edson, 277.5; Provost, 249.7; and Luscar, 203.5.

The Alberta Civil Service Association on Wednesday purchased $3,000 of the bonds.

Victory Loan Supported By Chinese Folk

Urgency of Canada's Victory Loan 1941 is recognized by the Chinese residents of the city, according to a report by one of the official representatives in the canvass.

He reported that he had called on a Chinese to ask him to subscribe to the loan. His "prospect" told him that he could not buy a bond that day but asked him to call again.

"Two days later the canvasser called and was met with this reply, "You didn't call yesterday and I had to buy a bond so I went to the bank for it."

More subscribers like this Oriental citizen will soon put the loan over its objective.

Broken Axle Is Cause Of Delay In Tram Service

Street railway service in the West End was tied up for approximately two hours Wednesday evening when a street car left the tracks at the Jasper avenue and 115 street intersection. A broken front axle was the cause of the derailment.

The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m., just as the peak of the evening traffic was subsiding. The blue-line cars travelling west were re-routed along 107 avenue, and busses were placed on the Jasper avenue west run to 107 avenue on 124 street.

The street car was travelling at a very slow speed when the axle snapped and apart from slight jolting no passenger received injury. A repair crew moved the car to the barns later in the evening.

EATON'S WELCOMES "Good Neighbours"

Right below, we reproduce the striking invitation appearing in current American periodicals, commencing with the New York Sunday Times, and published by The T. EATON Co. Limited, of Canada. To millions of Americans it says, "Good Neighbours, come up and vacation in Canada."

Canada at war is still a great place in which to play — and never has the country's revenue from tourists been devoted to a more urgent cause. Already our "Good Neighbours" have started their vacation trek to Canada. Give them a hearty welcome.

But where is the BORDER LINE, Dad?

"I'll tell you, Son, it's the nearest thing to an invisible line you ever heard of. You can't see it. You can't pick it up in your hands. It's just a place on the highway where Uncle Sam's country ends and Canada begins."

How true! For years, in other parts of the world, borders have bristled with guns; across them neighbours have faced each other with hate in their hearts. But in North America, the border has been an Invisible Line for more than a century, across which good neighbours join hands in trust and friendship. We Canadians are just plain proud of the kind of folks who live next door!

Last year, Canada was host to 14 million visitors from the United States. This year we're all set for the biggest summer ever, what with millions of old friends coming back, and new friends dropping around to get acquainted.

Like you, we're working full-speed-ahead with this job we have on our hands. But the Welcome Sign hangs high . . . the same old sign . . . always freshly painted.

So come on over to North America's Summer Playground. Let's show you a good time!

A Message of Welcome to our Good Neighbours from
